LONG INFECTION LOCALIZED; KING GAINS SLOWLY

Hope Rises for Merry Xmas in Palace.

BULLETIN.
LONDON, Dec. 7. (AP)—King George's physicians this morning issued this bulletin on his condition: "The king had some restful sleep and his general strength is maintained. Further investigation of the right side of the chest will be taken during the day."

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, Dec. 6.—Tonight's bulletin from Buckingham palace on the condition of King George was as follows: "The king's general condition remains the same as reported in this morning's bulletin. The localization of the infection at the base of the right side of the chest is rather more defined, which conforms to the progress of the illness during the last two days. (Signed) Sir Stanley Hewett, Dr. E. Farquhar Buzzard, Sir Humphrey Rolleston and Lord Dawson of Nan." General Condition Improving.
By far the most hopeful bulletin of King George's condition in several days was issued this morning by Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewett.

"The king has passed a fair night, with the temperature this morning was 98.6, settling down to a normal temperature. The general condition is slowly improving and the infection process, which remains severe, is becoming more localized," the bulletin said.

These News End of Course.
Improvement in the king's general condition, of course, is an important indication that the king's strength is holding up and the heart resisting the strain, but even more important is the localization of the infection process. It is learned from a high authority the king is suffering from emphysema, which is a production of pus accompanying severe pleurisy. This pus collects the whole system and cannot be dealt with until it localizes itself when it may be tapped by treatment or removed by surgery. The localization is an indication that the disease has nearly run its course and in this connection an improvement in the patient's strength is the most hopeful sign.

Palace Is Cheerful.
There was an air of general cheerfulness about the palace today after the bulletin was issued, and it was noted that when the queen and Prince Mary drove out they were quite cheerful. It is an evident fact, however, that the queen is feeling the strain and is looking tired and drawn. It is stated that the prince of Wales will reach London next Wednesday morning if arrangements to rush him through go without a hitch.

It is now hoped the king will be well enough to celebrate Christmas with most of his family around him at Buckingham palace. Princess Mary, it is reported, has sent for her two sons to join the family party in London. The duke and duchess of York, Princess Elizabeth, also are expected to return to the palace.

Medical Journal's Report.
The leading British medical journal, Lancet, tomorrow is publishing a long article on King George's illness, based on authorized statements, similar to an article appearing in the British Medical Journal. The Lancet says: "There is up to the present time no appreciable pleural effusion, but the pleurisy described in the bulletin unfortunately has extended to the diaphragm, causing severe pain, which constantly has needed medication. Attacks of bronchial spasm from time to time added difficulties."

"There is reason to think some of the pleurisy and perhaps emphysema has been secured. At the time of writing the physical signs in the chest were diminished and corresponding symptoms improved. There is, however, still an ebb and flow and medical men do not need to be told the strain on the heart muscle of a man whose infection lasting over two months must be an anxious problem, especially to a patient over sixty years of age. This strain on the heart and the severity of the general infection are together the chief cause of the anxiety which must for some days continue."

HEAVY SELLING WAVE SWEEPS PROFITS AWAY

Many Investors Are Made Penniless.

BY TOM PETTEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The stock market quaked ominously today in the worst money scare since July 1, 1920. Call funds leaped to 12 per cent and a long list of stocks broke from 5 to 20 points. Hundreds of millions of dollars of profits were wiped out by the collapse and hundreds of speculators were made penniless.

The house that "Jack built" threatened to topple over.

It was one of the severest declines the market ever has gone through. The "blue chip" traders were quaking in their boots tonight. Fifty of the fastest stepping stocks hit the toboggan and when the session closed no one could be found behind a plus sign.

Average Loss $5.20.
They showed an average net loss of $5.20. In the industrial group, 25 representative stocks declined $3.96, and twenty-five rails were skidding toward the bottom, off $2.45.

Old man John J. Public and the family also found themselves riding on the down side of the financial seasaw for the first time since the famous Hoover bull market started the country. All of the favorite plums in Wall street's orchard were shaken down and thousands of investors who have been biting into huge paper profits found their automobiles and country homes still dreams.

Break Starts Near Opening.
The break started soon after the opening. Most of the stocks got away to a good start but did a sudden about face and began skidding. Telegraph wires hummed with orders to sell at the market, brokers were swamped with business from all over the country and the close found them frantically trying to unload.

The day's transactions totaled 5,407,590 shares.

It was a sad day for the margin traders, and tonight hundreds of them were out of the market—shorn lambs with only a memory of their profits to carry them through the holiday season.

Brokers said hundreds of other accounts were so badly impaired that the traders will have to quit or start all over again.

Say Break Has Run Course.
Some of the more optimistic brokers said today's break had run its course. The liquidation, they said, represented distressed selling, and the weak holders of dividends and the part were eliminated.

The crash today was due to money stringency—for call money is the food on which the market thrives.

When money touched 12 per cent stock market operators became frightened and every one began unloading.

The tide of selling swelled to a flood, and it was so furious at the close that the ticker fell fifty-eight minutes behind the market.

The tightness of money was attributed to the large withdrawals of Thanksgiving week, month end settlements, distribution of dividends and interest amounting to more than $400,000,000, and recent losses of the country's gold stock. There was gossip in the brokerage houses that a group of big bankers had put their heads together and decided the market needed a corrective reaction and so withdrew their funds from the money market.

Montgomery Ward Falls.
The stock market was ripe for today's decline and it was the favorite stocks that made the speculators pay the piper the heaviest. United States Steel, the old bellwether of them all, slipped off its high perch with a resounding thud and lost 1/4 point on the day. Montgomery Ward, the stock that Arthur Cutten has been making jump through the hoops, took a nose-dive, much to the discomfort of the margin traders. It lost 2 1/2 points, and the 20 point margin speculators lost their shirts.

General Electric started for the bottom and still was slipping when the day's trading ended. It had a net loss of 11 points.

Today's decline of $5.20 in the combined averages is the greatest on record. The largest previous decline was $4.65 on July 30, 1914.

While the market was wiping out hundreds of millions of dollars in value today, stock exchange sales were leaping to a new high record. Arrangements were completed for the sale of a membership in the New York stock exchange for $10,000 above the previous high.

THEY CARRY $10 BILLS IN SHEETS DOWN IN TEXAS

Police believed they had arrested a big time counterfeiter when they took in custody Paul Hunter, toy manufacturer and banker of San Antonio, Tex. Hunter went out to the American Flyer Manufacturing company, 234 and Halsted streets, to purchase a few toy trains. His bill was $55, so he handed the clerk a sheet of five $10 bank notes, issued by the Commercial National bank of San Antonio, of which he is an officer. The clerk called the police.

"Listen, don't you think we know bank notes?" scoffed the policeman when Hunter expostulated.

"No," the police took the sheet of notes to a nearby bank where one of the officials corroborated Mr. Hunter. Further investigation showed the Texas had $150,000 to its credit in the bank at home.

The following day he called on her, beseeching her to join him in his new apartment. Betty said she would do some shopping before they started housekeeping. He gave her $200 to buy a fur coat.

On the third day Betty announced she had paid $100 down on the coat but would have to have $250 more. He paid. The next day she said she must have $30 more. He was reluctant to go any further into his savings, but according to his attorney she threatened him with litigation and again he paid.

This threat, the lawyer said, sent Mr. Ritchie to Attorney Augustus Plunge to seek the peace and quiet of bachelorhood.

Mr. Ritchie, at 40, Longs for Wife, Home

James Ritchie, at the age of 40, looked with favor on the institution of matrimony. Christmas without a freestone or wife was not something to contemplate with holiday cheer.

So Mr. Ritchie withdrew some of his savings from the bank and started visiting places of amusement, places where he might meet young women who would make acceptable wives. He met Betty Meyers, a cabaret entertainer.

And So They Were Married.
He liked Betty. She could sing "mammy" songs that touched his heart. He pictured her ready smile as a most desirable welcome, home after a day's work as a laborer. He asked the question. She said, "nothing," and they eloped to Waukegan.

The marriage was on Nov. 17. Yesterday, through Attorney Hugh A. Caperton, Mr. Ritchie filed a bill in the Superior court to annul the wedding on the ground that he is not really married at all. The bill sets forth the following story:

On their return from Waukegan, Betty took one look at his bachelor quarters at 304 West Jackson boulevard and said she preferred to stay at her hotel, in a single room, until he could rent a more comfortable apartment.

The next day Mr. Ritchie took his bride to a flat at 2348 West Adams street that he had rented. She didn't like the place and again returned to her hotel alone.

POLITE BANDITS MEET A LADY AND REVERT TO TYPE

The robbers who halted Miss Florence Gartner, 4330 Greenview avenue, and Mrs. A. H. Koehn, 4331 North Ashland avenue, in front of Miss Gartner's home last night tried to be pleasant.

"We are the polite bandits you read about," said one. "It is regrettable, but we need your money and your jewelry and your fur coats."

His tones were so pleasing that Miss Gartner believed she might argue him out of the coat. She began telling him that the signs pointed to a hard winter. Her remarks were cut short by the second robbery. He struck her over the shoulders with a blackjack and jerked her coat off.

"This polite stuff is the bunk," he said to his partner. "The right way is to treat 'em rough."

Then, with the fur coats and a small amount of money—they were unable to pull Miss Gartner's diamond ring from her finger—the men ran in an automobile and escaped.

Assassins Fire Into Window; Wife Wounded

Chief of Police Leroy Gilbert of South Chicago Heights, a haven for alky cooks on the south border of Cook county, was shot to death last night as he sat reading a newspaper in his bungalow at 2745 South Commercial avenue in the suburb.

Three charges from a sawed off shotgun, fired through a side window of the living room, almost blew Gilbert's head from his shoulders. One of the slugs struck the chief's wife in the right hand, severing a finger, as she rose in terror from a couch.

Gilbert's daughter, Ruth, 13 years old, the eldest of five children, ran screaming to her father from the dining room, where she was studying her school work. The four younger children had been put to bed.

Fire Through Window.
The chief's head was a good target above the back of his rocking chair. The assassins, as indicated by their footprints in the snow, ran from an automobile at the curb, rested the muzzle of the shotgun on the window ledge, about five feet above the ground, and took careful aim at Gilbert's head, silhouetted against a reading lamp. The window shade was partly raised.

Glenn Gilbert, a taxi operator and brother of the slain chief, heard the shots from his home to the rear of Chief Gilbert's bungalow. He ran to the front and saw a green sedan with two or more occupants pull swiftly away from the curb. Then Gilbert hurried to his brother's home and found him dead.

The motive for the killing presented a puzzle to the county highway police, who took charge of the investigation. Two recent incidents were regarded as significant.

Alcohol Seizure Recalled.
A week ago, it was recalled, Chief Gilbert's men seized a load of alcohol in the village. The driver and guard of the truck were arrested and turned over to the federal authorities. The produced bail and were released, pending action by the federal grand jury today. They are Joe Ross, 1504 Otto boulevard, and Joe Arini, 31 East 23d street, Chicago Heights. Highway police, sent to their homes and kept their houses under surveillance.

A few days after the alcohol seizure, it was reported, Chief Gilbert came to Chicago to confer with the sheriff concerning the vice problem in the village. Supposedly tolerant of the bootleggers in the community, the chief, it is said, desired support in a campaign to stamp out disorderly houses. These, it is said, have been springing up under the protection of the leaders of the booze industry.

Slaying Puzzles Police.
Whether Gilbert's death was the result of his temerity in challenging the vice interests or his seizure of the alcohol, or still another and as yet unrevealed clash with a liquor syndicate, was a question the authorities were unable to answer.

Gilbert, a former automobile dealer, took office a year ago. With four policemen he administered the law in the turbulent community of 1600 to the apparent satisfaction of the large foreign element, mainly Sicilians. Occasionally the prohibition agents raided a still or two but the government's attention was mainly concentrated on the smaller community, Chicago Heights, where a score of men have been slain in bootleg feuds and hundreds arrested for liquor dealings.

In the smaller community to the south, however, there has been little violence. Gilbert's wife, prostrated by the shooting, told the police her husband had received no threats, at least none of which he told her.

YOUTH SLAIN IN ROAD
In a second mysterious shooting in the Chicago Heights vicinity a youth returning with a friend from a call on two young women was fatally shot. He was Thomas Scanlon, 23, 1437 Vincennes avenue, Chicago Heights, a printer on the Chicago Heights Star. He was riding in an automobile driven by Alvin Soderberg, 28 years old, 1233 Otto boulevard, Chicago Heights, along 16th street after they had left the home of two Chicago Heights telephone operators.

As they neared the C. & E. I. tracks three men waving flashlights sprang from the roadside to the middle of the pavement. Believing it was a holdup, Soderberg stepped on the gas. As they passed the trio several shots were fired. One struck Scanlon in the head. Soderberg raced for a hospital but was stopped by a flat tire. Oscar Martin of Steger, a passing motorist, then took the wounded man to St. James hospital where he died on the operating table. The county highway police declared they were confident the shooting was done in an attempted holdup.

CITIZENS' GROUP PICKED TO SEEK TRANSIT PEACE

U. S. Court Names Simpson Chairman.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson appointed a citizens' advisory committee yesterday to aid the city and the transit companies in agreeing upon a new transit franchise, the obtaining of necessary state legislation and the ending of the receivership in his court of the north and west side surface lines.

Immediately afterwards he issued a statement indicating that he hoped the city and companies will reach an agreement in thirty days and that the legislature will act favorably at its session which begins in January.

Name Five on Committee.
The committee selected is as follows: James Simpson, chairman, who is president of the Chicago Fair commission.

Col. A. A. Sprague, former commissioner of public works, and connected with Sprague Warner & Co.

Joseph R. Noel, president of the New State bank and chairman of the citizens committee which located the new Criminal courts building and jail at the Bridge well grounds.

John A. Carroll, controlling factor in the Hyde Park National, Jackson Park National, and South Shore State banks and a real estate operator.

Charles H. Thompson, dean of the college of commerce of the University of Illinois, and a student of public utility subjects.

Judge Calls Conference.
The announcement of the committee was made yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of a conference in the judge's chambers. It is understood that Mr. Simpson and Col. Sprague, with whom the judge had previously conferred privately, hesitated to accept the task unless given that hope of success which active cooperation by the city officials would supply. So the judge invited to his chambers Messrs. Simpson and Sprague, Mayor Thompson, Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, chairman of the council local transportation committee, Ald. M. I. Frankhauser, chairman of the subcommittee on franchises, and Weymouth Kirkland and James Sheehan, attorneys for the receivers of the Chicago Railways company, who are Henry A. Blair and Frederick H. Rawson.

DRY LAW FARCE, HOUSE FRIENDS AND FOES AGREE

Government Admits It, Says La Guardia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Prohibition Commissioner Dyer estimates that 200 million dollars would be required to make prohibition effective was interpreted to be by house wets and drys alike as an admission of the government's complete failure to enforce the Volstead act.

Representative F. H. La Guardia, Rep. N. Y., an outstanding wet, defended the proposal in the pending necessary appropriation bill to allot $150,000,000 for prohibition bureau activities in the next year. He said: "It will take at least that much to enforce prohibition in Detroit, in the city from which the great champions of prohibition hail." Both Representatives Grant Hudson and Louis Crampton, generally recognized as Anti-Saloon league spokesmen, come from Michigan.

Suggest 150,000 Men.
Statements recently made by Assistant Attorney General Mabel Willebrandt and Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, coast guard commandant, revealing the government's inability to cope with foreign rum smugglers, make it obvious, the New York congressman argued, that at least 250 millions a year must be spent to ring the coasts and the Canadian border with an army of 150,000 dry agents, working in three shifts a day.

"Then," continued Mr. La Guardia, "you would have to have another 150,000 men to watch the first 150,000, and that is only a start."

Representative Ralph Loefer (Dem., Mo.), a staunch dry, denounced federal enforcement for the last eight years as "a farce," and declared that if state authorities had not made some attempt to enforce their own liquor laws there would have been no enforcement of prohibition at all.

No Honest Attempt.
Mr. La Guardia challenged his Missouri colleague to assert whether he believed solution of the prohibition problem should be left to the states.

"No, I don't," replied Mr. Loefer, "but what I say is that for eight years the federal administration has made no honest effort to enforce the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment."

Mr. La Guardia recalled that a few years ago drys in and out of congress complained that enforcement was hampered by the refusal of wets to permit sufficient appropriations and that as a result of those complaints the appropriations for dry law activities were increased year after year.

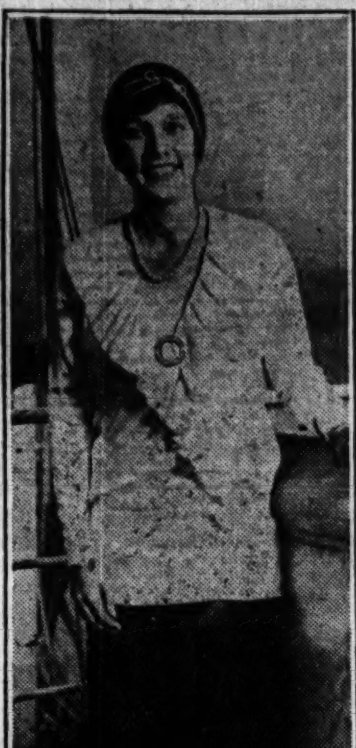

"Now the condition is reversed," declared Mr. La Guardia. "After eight years of failure, the drys have come to realize that the enforcement of prohibition is simply impossible. They are therefore playing with this great problem and letting it drag along."

"No dry can take the floor in this house and complain of lack of appropriations now. If you will look, you will note, first, that insufficient funds are appropriated—and purposely so—to prevent a real test or a real attempt at enforcement in the so-called dry states, and, second, that of the meager amount given for the purpose last year, $110,000 is going to be turned back into the treasury.

"What does this mean?" continued Mr. La Guardia. "It means that there is no desire, with the exception of a few localities, to enforce prohibition."

Mr. La Guardia pointed out that in states like Kansas, Iowa, North Carolina, Minnesota, and others which send bone dry delegations to congress and at the same time are notorious for dry law violations, "there is hardly a penny spent for law enforcement."

"This law was not made for New York alone," said Mr. La Guardia. "This law was not made for just a few large cities. This is a national law, you have told us. Why not enforce it in your dry states? I have made the statement, and the figures will bear me out, that if you take the 250 largest cities in the country you will find that 225 of them have not a single, solitary prohibition agent within their borders."

All or None, He Demands.
"Now, gentlemen, if you really want to continue this 'noble experiment'—although some of us are convinced we have passed the experimental stage and it is a complete failure—you should do so honestly and fully, and appropriate sufficient funds to send agents into every state of the Union."

Mr. La Guardia asserted that the old "under cover paid informer" espionage system in the dry bureau has been supplanted by a more vicious practice under which dry agents use their own wives as decoys to encourage liquor law violations, and he cited the recent spectacular night club raids in New York which were based largely on evidence secured by dry sleuths' wives.

Rear Admiral Billard, in his annual report submitted to congress today, asserted the coast guard "has accomplished all that is possible to accomplish with its present resources" in the attempt to suppress rum smuggling on the Atlantic coast and across the Canadian border. Liquor smuggling has been "tremendously curtailed," but, according to the report, "a considerable volume of contraband booze still finds its way into the country."

"It is not believed possible," declared the admiral in the report, "for any organization, with the same resources in men, ships and stations, to have done more to reduce liquor smuggling at sea than the coast guard has done. Much more remains to be done, but if more is to be accomplished the forces of the coast guard must be increased, both in personnel and in vessels."

Start Tax Revaluation of Property on Gold Coast

HE'S AN ANGEL AT CHURCH, PAGAN IN HOME, WIFE SAYS

Judge Grants Her Divorce from Sexton.

Mrs. Julia O. Hallgren of 4435 Sidney street took the witness stand yesterday before Superior Judge Joseph Sabath in her suit for divorce against John A. Hallgren, sexton of the Kenwood Evangelical church.

"What has been your husband's general conduct during the last few years?" asked her attorney, Harry X. Cole.

"Around the church, he was an angel," she replied. "He was obsequious to every wish of the deacons. He was gentle and kindly toward members of the congregation. He never quarreled and was always ready to turn the other cheek in accordance with holy writ."

But at Home—
"This doesn't sound like a divorce complaint," Judge Sabath interrupted. "One moment, if your honor please," Attorney Cole responded and then, turning to the witness, asked: "What was your husband's general demeanor at home?"

"He lost his smile as soon as he came home," she answered. "Around the house he was sullen and mean. He beat me with pagan cruelty on several occasions."

"What happened on Nov. 17?"
"Chases Her from Church."

"I went to the church to see if some of his friends could tell me what was the matter with him. He saw me there and for the first time broke his good conduct rule in church. In the presence of the pastor and several members of the congregation he struck me, threw me against a wall, and chased me out of the building."

"It's an aggravated case of hypocrisy," the lawyer told the court.

"Divorce granted," said Judge Sabath.

FISH FANS' CLUB CRAFT SENT TO BOTTOM OF LAKE

The dismantled hull of the boat that was the home of the Fish Fans' club was towed away from its moorings in Belmont harbor to a watery grave in the depths of Lake Michigan yesterday. The scuttling of the craft was done by employees of the Lincoln park board, which has been insisting that the boat be removed from the harbor.

In 1924 the hull was presented to the club, which had 1,700 members, by George F. Getz. Prominent in the management were Mayor Thompson's political friends. Gay parties were held aboard it, but its popularity began to wane two years ago, when boarding details from the prohibition department found liquor.

LAKE DROPS ON PERUVIAN MINE, ENTOMBING 41

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LIMA, Peru, Dec. 6.—The cave in of the lake bottom above the Morococha mines of the Cerro de Pasco Copper company yesterday afternoon trapped a Scotch mine foreman named MacGregor and forty Peruvian miners, whose deaths are practically certain. The water and mud from the lake bottom filled the greater part of the mine. Costly pumping machinery was installed after a similar accident three years ago, and recently an announcement was made that a six mile tunnel would be constructed between the Morococha mines at a 15,000 foot level, and the village of Mohr, in the Yanall valley, to free the Morococha zone of the flood menace. The tunnel project was regarded as one of the most notable mining undertakings of the present day.

WETS DEMAND CONGRESS VOTE TO REAPPORTION

Drys to Lose 50 Seats if Bill Is Passed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—There is soon to be a showdown in the house on the continued refusal of the drys, the ruralites and some other groups to permit a reapportionment of representatives in congress, as required decennially by the constitution.

As a result of the failure to reapportion since the 1920 census, there are 15,000,000 persons in the country, largely the residents of cities, who are without the representation in congress to which they are entitled. It is estimated that the cities would gain and rural districts would lose not fewer than 50 congressmen by the redistricting of states following a reapportionment.

Demand Implicit Obedience.
Inasmuch as the cities generally are wet, the effect of reapportionment and redistricting would be a weakening of the dry strength in congress. For this reason the rural drys, while hotly demanding implicit obedience to the 17th amendment, have not hesitated to nullify that part of the constitution requiring decennial reapportionment.

Inasmuch as this continued injustice to their constituents, the representatives of Michigan, California, and other states which stand to gain members by a reapportionment, returned to this session with blood in their eyes. Headed by Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Rep., Mich.), they served notice that they would obstruct the passage of all legislation until they are assured of action on a reapportionment bill at this session. This threat was effective. The Republican steering committee lost no time in directing the census committee to report a reapportionment bill and promised a special rule for its consideration before the Christmas recess.

Consideration of Fenn Bill.
The census committee, of which Representative E. Hart Fenn (Rep., Conn.) is chairman, met today and began consideration of the Fenn bill providing for reapportionment on the basis of the 1920 census. The committee will meet again tomorrow and probably will report the bill to the house next Monday or Tuesday.

The Fenn bill provides for the retention of a membership of 435 in the house. It directs the secretary of commerce to report to the next congress the number of representatives

SHOTS STOP HOLIDAY LIQUOR SHIP; CREW AND CARGO SEIZED

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The story of the thrilling capture of a former submarine chaser, renamed the Porpoise, and dedicated, it is charged, to flouting the laws of the country she once defended, was told today when the renegade boat with five members of her crew in irons was towed into this port.

The Porpoise was captured off New London by a coast guard gun boat commanded by J. P. Hancock, who came upon her at anchor in a heavy fog early yesterday.

As soon as the coast guard boat hove into sight the Porpoise hoisted anchor and sailed away through the fog. With bullets raking the run runner's wheelhouse, the chase went on until the one pounder on the forward deck of the little patrol boat was unlimbered. The first shot went across the bow of the Porpoise. The second tore through her stern. Before the third was fired the Porpoise hove to and her crew surrendered. The coast guards allege they found 900 bags of liquor aboard.

This was unloaded and taken to the large office to rest beside 1,500 other bottles of assorted wines and liquors, which landed there instead of on holiday tables.

One thousand bottles of champagne, benedictine, vermouth, cognac and even vodka were taken off the French liner Ile de France at her pier early today by customs guards.

to which each state is entitled on the basis of the 1920 census. If, then, the next congress fails to reapportion on the basis of the 1920 census the reapportionment reported by the secretary of commerce shall go into effect.

Want Two Reapportionments.
Mr. McLeod and his supporters want in reality two reapportionments—one to be made at once on the basis of the 1920 census, which would cause a shift of 12 representatives and a prospective one to be ordered on the basis of the 1930 census, as provided in the Fenn bill, which would entail a shift of 23 representatives.

The house refused to pass the Fenn bill in the last session and sent it back to the committee by a vote of 200 to 179.

In the last session there were 127

Republicans and 83 Democrats in favor of the Fenn bill, and 77 Republicans and 123 Democrats against it. The opponents were mainly rural drys.

Downstate Illinois members helped to boost the effort to pass the bill. Some of them admit while some deny that they were actuated by the consideration that Chicago stands to gain two congressmen as the result of reapportionment. Midwestern members who voted against the bill were Adkins, Allen, Buckbee, Denison, Hall, Holaday, William E. Hull, Irwin, Johnson, Sprout and Williams of Illinois; Cole, Dowell, Dickinson, Haugen, Kopp, Letta, Ramseyer, Robinson and Thurston of Iowa; Elliott, Hall, Hickey, Hogg, Johnson, Purnell, Rowbottom, Vestal and Wood of Indiana; all Republicans, and Arnold, Major and Rainey of Illinois; Canfield, Gardner and Greenwood of Indiana, all Democrats.

Alabama Would Lose.
It is possible the issue of the disfranchisement of the Negroes by southern states will be injected into the reapportionment fight. Representative George H. Flinham (Rep., Mass.) is known to be considering an amendment to the Fenn bill directing the secretary of commerce to comply with the fourteenth amendment in reapportioning representatives on the basis of the 1920 census.

It is estimated that if the fourteenth amendment were enforced Alabama would lose four congressmen, Arkansas two, Florida one, Georgia five, Louisiana three, Mississippi four, North Carolina three, South Carolina three, Tennessee two, Texas three and Virginia three. The south, which now has 104 representatives, would have but 71 if the fourteenth amendment were carried into effect.

RADICALS FIGHT CONFIRMATION OF WEST BY SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Opposition to the confirmation of Roy O. West as secretary of the interior appeared in prospect today when his nomination was sent to the senate by President Coolidge. The nomination of William F. Whiting as secretary of commerce, also a recess appointee of the last summer, was transmitted with that of Mr. West. The nomination of Mr. West was referred to the committee on public lands. Senator G. E. Nye (Rep., N. D.), chairman of the committee, announced that the committee would meet on Saturday to determine whether hearings would be held on the nomination.

Some of the radicals in the senate, including Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem., Mont.), have assailed Mr. West because of former connections with Samuel Insull, Chicago public utility magnate, and propose to make a fight against his confirmation. It had been understood that the President would not send Mr. West's nomination to the senate in view of the fact that under a recess appointment he would be able to serve until March 4 without confirmation. In case it develops that the radical Republicans and the Democrats are able to muster enough votes to cause rejection of the appointment it is expected that no effort will be made to bring the nomination to a vote.

Friends of Mr. West believe that the radical move against him will not be successful and his appointment will be confirmed by a substantial majority. No opposition to Mr. Whiting's nomination is expected.

CHARGE SEVEN COAST GUARDSMEN SEIZED, THEN SOLD LIQUOR

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Investigation of allegations that the crew of the coast guard cutter 219 were accomplices in the illegal sale of liquor seized from a rum runner in the Detroit river, was conducted today before Lieut. Martin W. Rasmussen of Buffalo district commander of the coast guard. The inquiry is being conducted at Erie, Pa.

Although the commander refused to divulge the result of his examination, he released the names of the accused men. They are: Hans Souder, chief boatswain; Leo Gaskies, F. E. Parker, S. C. Garnaack, Steven Pickering, C. D. Wilks, and Joseph Schriber. Arrested as smugglers in the Detroit river, William Adams and Joseph Janowski, both of Detroit, later accused the boatswain and crew of selling half the liquor seized aboard their boat.

COALITION NAMES ELMORE TO HEAD SANITARY BOARD

Deneenites, Democrats
Divide Patronage.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Edward W. Elmore, a Deneen Republican, was elected president of the sanitary district yesterday by a coalition of three Democratic and two Deneen trustees.

A retrenchment policy aimed to try to get out of pay roll and other district expenditures was agreed to by the controlling group. Mr. Elmore is one of the two new members of the board, the other being Rose A. Woodhull, Democrat. The five trustees who elected the president declared last night their action was a response to the public sentiment for a housecleaning as registered in the April primaries and the November election.

The votes which elected Elmore were cast by Trustees James M. Whalen, Rose A. Woodhull and John J. Touhy, Democrats, and Frank J. Link and Mr. Elmore, Deneenites.

Thompsonites Back King.

The three holdover Thompson Republicans, L. F. King, A. W. Miller and John E. Lawler, voted against Elmore. Their candidate was Mr. King. Trustee Henry A. Berger, Democrat, who has been one of the prominent contenders for the presidency, did not vote.

The agreement for reorganization of the district embraced a division of key positions and general patronage as follows:

Patronage is to be divided 60-40, the Democrats taking 60 per cent and the Deneenites 40 per cent of the jobs.

The Deneen camp gets the president, the chief clerk, the chief attorney, the purchasing agent, and the real estate agent.

The Democrats retain E. J. Kelly as chief engineer and the treasurer and the district marshal.

Following the recent upheaval over pay rolls, the employment committee is to be practically wiped out. It may be given a new name as "retrenchment" committee.

Woodhull Heads Finance.

Trustee Woodhull, a new member, is to be chairman of the finance committee. The trustees say the district will thus have advantage of his experience in the city council as head of the finance body. Trustee Link is to be head of the engineering committee. These two chairmen, Woodhull and Link, are to form the real employment committee, supervising distribution of jobs.

Mr. Elmore may be chairman of the real estate development committee. The committees are to be taken up at next week's meeting. The Deneen group said its selection for the new positions it gets will not be picked until the holidays.

The negotiations which brought the agreement lasted until late in the afternoon. From the Union League club Senator Deneen directed his followers in the conference before returning to Washington. The Democrats, having four members of the board, maintained they were entitled to the presidency as being the largest group. Senator Deneen's view was that unless Elmore were decided on the Deneen group would stand back as a watchful minority instead of entering a combination. It narrowed down to Elmore and Woodhull, the two new members, and finally the Democrats swung over, with the exception of Mr. Berger, who rolled up almost a million votes in the election last month.

Healy and Cernak Sit In.

Thomas J. Healy, a Deneen war-horse and a former trustee, and A. J. Cernak, Democratic president of the county board, sat in at the conference.

After his election to the presidency, Mr. Elmore made a brief speech, wanting to ask close cooperation to place the board on a business administration, he said, "and I'll give you my address at the next meeting."

The first work of the new board was to award the $37,000,000 bond issue to carry on the construction work of the Illinois Merchants Trust company, whose bid was $28,475,500. The bid was $8.05 or a 4.5 per cent basis. The only other bid was that of $6.50 by a group of banking houses headed by the National City bank of New York, which bid $28,055,000.

The difference of $418,000 between the two bids was partly attributed to the taxpayer's suit which was filed

Wednesday to restrain the sale of the bonds. The suit charged fraud in the expenditure of $1,374,380 for legal fees by the sanitary trustees. Yesterday's bids were made on condition that the litigation be settled and the bonds be delivered before Jan. 1. After this date, the board lawyers say, no bonds can be issued without being submitted to a popular referendum.

O'Brien Offers Resignation.

Martin J. O'Brien offered his resignation as chief clerk, but withdrew it when Trustee King pointed out that the bonds must be signed by the same secretary who officiated when the issue was voted. He will remain until after the bonds are delivered.

At the last session of the old board, T. J. Crowe, retiring president, delivered his final address reviewing the work of the district. He asked that his successor be given the utmost cooperation. After a parliamentary tangle the old board dissolved into the new board, with Trustee Berger in the chair. A. W. Miller moved Mr. King be elected president. Trustee Link put in a substitute motion that Elmore be elected, and the substitute carried.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday ordered a recount of the ballots cast at the April primaries for Republican committeeman in the Fifth ward which showed Arthur Dyer defeating Felix A. Norden by 166 votes.

NEW SCHOOL PAY PROBLEM LOOMS AS TAXES SHRINK

Harding Cites Reduction in Fund Available.

School board officials were disturbed last night as to possible means of meeting the teachers' pay roll of Dec. 20 when they were informed by County Treasurer George F. Harding that he will be able to turn over to the city not more than $5,000,000 in taxes between now and Jan. 1. Of this amount the educational fund, from which teachers' salaries are drawn, will be entitled to only 30 per cent, or about $1,500,000. The board will require a total of $3,500,000 to meet the pay roll.

Mr. Harding indicated that the net tax revenue has been cut into more this year than ever before because of losses and higher costs of making collections. This year, he pointed out, the loss and cost percentage has leaped up to 18 per cent, half again as much as last year's record of 12 per cent. Loss and cost figures for a long period of years previous to 1927, he said, did not figure up more than 9 per cent.

All Look to Caldwell. Members of the board expressed a hope yesterday that President H. Wallace Caldwell may be able to pilot them out of the new dilemma. On Tuesday while the city council was debating how this week's teachers' pay rolls could be met, Mr. Caldwell dropped hints that he had a plan "up his sleeve" to get the money should the council have failed. He may now have an opportunity to put his plan to use, it was asserted yesterday.

Mr. Harding exhibited a table showing the yearly record of uncollected taxes beginning with 1924. His figures showed that the uncollected item jumped upward a little more than 100 per cent in 1928 as compared with 1927. The table follows:

Year	Amount due	Uncollected
1924	$160,515,745	$29,629,448
1925	177,617,970	31,163,148
1926	197,465,469	36,344,768
1927	208,518,553	36,885,654
1928	241,888,737	63,590,000

600 NEW FLU CASES IN DAY; LOS ANGELES TOTAL REACHES 2,821

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—(AP)—With 600 new cases of influenza in Los Angeles today, the number of cases reported during the first six days of the month increased to 2,821. Nearly 70 deaths have been caused by the disease or complications arising from it in this period.

Schools here remained open although authorities in Pasadena continued to suspend classes. Schools in four other counties of southern California were open after a temporary close.

On Dec. 1 there were 8,712 cases of influenza under medical observation in California, Dr. W. M. Dickie, state director of public health, reported. Los Angeles county had 5,182.

was charged yesterday in a statement by leaders of the Chicago Teachers' federation. The announcement was heralded widely, the federation charged, for the purpose of furthering legislation to divert the school building fund "to other purposes, and probably to interfere with the re-estimation now in progress."

A Message to Underweight Men and Women

The one supremely good health building tonic that is also the one great weight producer known to modern science the country over is McCoy's Tablets.

They build flesh where flesh is needed—sunken cheeks, neck and chest—and many a man and woman, skinny and scrawny, have thanked McCoy's after a few weeks' treatment for the decided improvement in looks and figure.

Many times the increase in weight is astonishing—one exceedingly thin woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking four 40-cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or two One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your money will be refunded.

Just ask for McCoy's Tablets at any drug store. Distributed by McCoy's Laboratories, Inc., also distributors of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil—there is none better.

EVEN HIS PALS CAN'T LOCATE SALTIS HIDEOUT

Fearful of passing the Christmas holidays in a cell at the Bridewell, Joe Saltis, south side beer gangster, who has evaded police and Municipal court bailiffs for 200 days, has taken to keeping his whereabouts secret from some of his most trusted lieutenants, it was learned yesterday.

Federal deputy marshals, who were enlisted in the search more recently, and an occasional raiding prohibition squad have had no more success than the police in finding Saltis.

In his attempts to evade service of the United States Supreme court mandate remanding him to jail for sixty days for gun toting, Saltis camouflages his flying trips around the city, the information to federal authorities stated. For example, it was said if Saltis intended to visit the north side the word would go out that he was in the south side inspecting breweries. In this way, it was reported, Saltis expects to keep his freedom for the purpose of increasing the supply of beer to meet holiday demands.

BOARD OF TRADE BUILDING TO HEAR ITS KNELL TODAY

"Cease Trading" Gong Will Ring for Last Time.

The "cease trading" gong will be sounded today at the old Chicago Board of Trade building for the last time. The historic edifice at Jackson boulevard and La Salle street will be torn down and replaced by a monumental structure, forty-four stories in height, the new home of the grain market.

When the gong rings at 2 o'clock it will be the requiem over the pit where fortunes have been made and lost during the forty-four years of the market's existence. For fifteen months the trading will go on in a four story building at 453 South Clark street, and then the traders will come back to their new home, including the land, $20,000,000.

Two Thousand Members Move.
The gong will mean moving day for more than 2,000 members of the board, which, in the past 44 years, has traded in eleven billion bushels of "cash" grain, amounting approximately to 6,000,000 full freight cars.

The building was the city's pride back in 1884 when it was finished. A celebration and parade marked the formal dedication, with the city's notables among those present.

During those forty-four years the names of P. D. Armour, Joseph Leiter, James A. Patten, and Arthur Cutten were associated with tremendous deals in grain. "Old Hutch"—B. P. Hutchinson—drove the price of wheat up from 82½ cents to $2.00 per bushel in 1888 after the Cincinnati combination in 1887 had run it up from 80 cents to 94, only to have the market collapse to a price of 60 cents.

A Corner in Wheat.
Patten cornered the wheat market in May, 1909, the price soaring to $1.54. He became known as the wheat king, and then Arthur Cutten won the title of corn king after many battles with J. Ogden Armour.

Old timers recalled Joe Leiter's attempted coup, which cost him $9,000,000 after he had bought millions of bushels of wheat and had watched the price soar till he had paper profits of $5,000,000. The elder Armour kept tugs breaking ice all winter in the St. Mary's river to deliver his grain in Chicago on time.

Memberships Now $45,000.
In the forty-four years since the building was opened memberships have risen in value from $2,400 to $45,000, but when a venturesome group decided, in 1948, to raise $110 monthly rental and form a grain exchange, they had to give free beer and lunch to invite traders to their exchange rooms.

In recent years a cotton exchange has been added to the board's activities and in the new building there

ACCLAIM MORE TO BE DESIRED THAN RICHES, JOHN D. SR. DECLARES

Ormond Beach, Fla., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Friendship is "one of the greatest things in life," and "acclaim is more to be desired than riches," John D. Rockefeller Sr. told an Associated Press correspondent during the aged magnate's journey here from Jacksonville.

The correspondent found the 89-year-old capitalist in a happy and meditative mood, though his attendants said he was worn and weary from the long trip to Florida.

"It is wonderful, this friendship," said the capitalist, speaking of his Ormond friends. "It is one of the greatest things in life. People are so good to me everywhere I go."

"You know that old saying," he added, "It's better to be acclaimed than have riches? You want to remember that, young man, because when you grow old you will find how true it is."

As his caller started to leave Mr. Rockefeller handed him a shining dime. "Something to remember me by," he said.

JUDGE UPHOLDS U. S. TAX QUIZ ON CHECKER TAXI CO.

Says Evidence Warrants
Federal Hearing.

An apparent evasion of the federal revenue laws by the Checker Taxi company was noted by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday when attorneys for the company appeared before him with a motion to limit the investigation before Master in Chancery Thomas J. Peden. The company attorneys charged that the representatives of the government are overzealous in tracing alleged grafting by company officials and are slighting the charges of improper conduct made against opposing counsel.

Information was presented to the court by Master Peden that the hearings had disclosed a fund of at least $140,000 deposited in a bank under a fictitious name. This account, which grew out of commissions received from sales of automobiles, gasoline, and taximeters to Checker drivers, has been traced to Sidney Gordon, brother of Harry Gordon, vice president of the Checker Taxi company, Master Peden said. There has been further evidence, he declared, that some of the Checker officials had an interest in the fund.

Charge Irregularities.

This brought the charge from the taxi company's attorneys that the hearing has been delving into the af-airs of the company in an irregular way, although one phase of the investigation is examination of charges that the company officials were grafting. These charges were made by driver stockholders in an intervening petition, by which they are seeking to become parties to the breach of contract suit of the Checker Cab Manufacturing company against the taxi company.

"You will concede that counsel for the opposition has the right to prove whether its pleadings are true or false," Judge Wilkerson told the taxi company's attorneys. "In any event, you cannot collect a great fund like this without accounting to the United States government in connection with the income tax laws. There appears to be a very serious conspiracy to defraud the United States. The officers of this court cannot be overzealous to emphasize that phase of the investigation."

Disclosure Gasoline Purchases.

Continuation of the full investigation disclosed that the United Petroleum company sold 600,000 gallons of gasoline to the Checker Taxi company each year. Joseph L. Stone, secretary-treasurer of the petroleum company, testified that he received 1% cents commission on each gallon for trade he brought to his company.

Navy Dirigible Los Angeles Back from 24 Hour Flight.

Lakehurst, N. J., Dec. 6.—(AP)—The dirigible Los Angeles returned to the naval air station late today after a 24 hour training flight. Lieutenant Commander H. V. Wiley was in command of a crew of 44 officers and men on the flight. Officers were enthusiastic over the results of an experiment with a sound direction finder conducted at Camden. The device is expected to aid aviators landing in a heavy fog. The nonrigid airship J-4, which took off this morning, also returned at dusk and was berthed in the hangar with the Los Angeles.

John Campbell, 59 years old, of Williamsburg, Mich., engineer of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois suburban train which rode through a block signal at 21st street and Archer avenue yesterday and sideswiped a Pennsylvania express train, will be arraigned before Judge Frank M. Padden today on a charge of criminal negligence.

Capt. John Prendergast ordered Campbell booked after Dr. C. A. Donovan, police surgeon, declared the engineer had been drinking.

Campbell said he was unable to stop his train because the brakes had frozen.

Fifty passengers in the two coaches of the suburban train, which was running into the Dearborn street station from Crete, Ill., were thrown into a panic by the crash, but none was injured. The Pennsylvania train, composed of fourteen baggage cars carrying special merchandise, was bound for Chicago from Pittsburgh, and was nearly three hours late.

Traffic at the Intersection was Tied up for several hours, and hundreds of loop workers were forced to detour in order to reach their offices.

"Diamond Jack" Alterie's Denver Gun Not Concealed

Denver, Colo., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Louis "Diamond Jack" Alterie, one time Chicago gunman, doesn't carry concealed weapons, a jury in justice court decided today. Alterie, who is now a rancher, was charged with carrying a concealed weapon Oct. 27 when he went to the Union station to cheer for his favorite presidential candidate. Alterie and several henchmen testified today the gun he carried was not concealed—it was stuck in his belt in plain sight.

BALKS VERDICT, FEARS PENALTY MAY BE LIFE

Apprehension about the severity of the punishment that Judge Thomas J. Lynch of the Criminal court might impose on a man accused of robbery is reported to be the reason for one juror's refusal to sign a verdict of guilty against Harry Chalem, alias Harry Fronleyneki. The jury was locked up for the night last evening after a verdict was not reached after a deliberation of two hours. If a verdict is arrived at during the night it will be returned in court this morning.

The jury is reported to stand 11 to 1 for conviction. The holdout is reported to have replied to the arguments of his associates that he fears the judge might impose a life sentence if a verdict of guilty is returned and that, he believes, is too severe for the crime. The penalty is automatic under the law and is an indeterminate sentence of from 1 year to life.

Mrs. Mary Thorne, 1453 West

Adams street, who was robbed of three rings on Sept. 21 by a man who entered her home, testified against Chalem. She had attempted to drop the prosecution on Wednesday because she felt sorry for Chalem's mother, she said, but was forced to go on with the case by the judge and Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty.

Woman Steps Under Gate at R. Station; Killed

Mrs. Lillian Saure, 42 years old, owner of an apparel shop at 180 East Delaware street, was killed yesterday by a Chicago and North Western switch engine in Arlington Heights when she ducked under lowered crossing gates to catch a suburban train to the city. Her body struck F. O. Proctor, a fellow commuter of Arlington Heights, and knocked him under at a coach of the suburban train. He was not seriously injured.

MILLIONAIRE MAY FACE MANN ACT CHARGE BY GIRL

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 6.—The yacht Malvern, owned by C. P. Whitehead, Atlanta millionaire, with Frances Porter, American show girl and late companion of the wealthy sportsman, aboard sailed late today for Florida without the owner. Miss Porter told the port officers here she would go to Washington and prefer charges for violation of Mann act against the young millionaire. Mr. Whitehead was preparing to proceed against the woman for commanding the yacht, while he lay ill in a local hotel suffering injuries he charges were inflicted by the woman several days ago. Tuesday night she boarded the yacht in Havana harbor, defying officers of the consulate who were appealed to after the port officers refused to board the steamer, as it was under the American flag. The yacht should arrive in Miami tomorrow afternoon.

JADWIN CH GREED MAY FLOOD CO

Ten Times Value
Asked by Land

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]—Completion of one of the $25 million dollar flood control projects by the city of the Mississippi is now smoothly at present with sight except in connection with the purchase of some of the land needed by the project. It is not doubted that the logic of the situation will prevail in the flood start.

At the time the flood was before congress was asserted by opponents of the measure of the measure of the government in process would ask exorbitant properties. In an attempt to act this argument, the government would assert they would act at a reasonable price.

Following the Jadwin national congress passed urging rapid prosecution of the project.

Take Issue with In calling for the approval of the rivers and the 500 design to the President Coolidge dept. In his annual message against passing another bill until work on projects already more nearly completed.

The bill authorizes entering the channels of the river for constructing work on the river to compensate cargo and other water Lake Michigan.

It is possible this amended, so it will provide federal aid for the construction of the Illinois waterway so the suit route can be completed.

JADWIN CHARGES GREED MAY DELAY FLOOD CONTROL

Ten Times Value of Soil
Asked by Land Owners.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Completion of certain sections of the $25 million dollar Mississippi flood control project may be delayed by the cupidity of the land owners, it was disclosed today by Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, army chief of engineers, in an address before the National Rivers and Harbors congress.

Gen. Jadwin stated that owners of lands needed by the government for the Bonnet Carré floodway above New Orleans are asking ten times the assessed value of their properties.

"Work on the flood control plan for the Mississippi is moving swiftly and smoothly at present with no hitch in sight except in connection with the purchase of some of the land," Gen. Jadwin stated.

"It is not doubted that, in view of the logic of the situation, more reasonable prices will prevail and that construction on the floodway can soon start."

Promises Unfulfilled.
At the time the flood control project was before congress last winter it was asserted by opponents of certain sections of the measure that if it were enacted owners of land needed by the government in prosecuting its project would ask exorbitant prices for their properties. In an attempt to counteract this argument, interested land owners flooded congress with telegrams asserting they would sell their properties at a reasonable rate.

Following the Jadwin address, the national congress passed resolutions urging rapid prosecution of the Mississippi project.

Take Issue with Coolidge.
In calling for congressional approval of the rivers and harbors bill, the 500 delegates took direct issue with President Coolidge. The President, in his annual message, advised against passing another rivers and harbors bill until work on the waterway projects already authorized was more nearly completed.

The bill authorizes funds for deepening the channels of the great lakes and for constructing works in the St. Clair river to compensate for the Chicago and other water diversions from Lake Michigan.

It is possible this bill may be amended, so it will provide additional federal aid for the construction of the Illinois waterway so the lakes to the gulf route can be completed in 1931.

DEVICE EMPLOYS ONE LINOTYPIST, MANY MACHINES

Teletypesetter Tested
Before Editors.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The first public demonstration of a new device for setting type by telegraph was staged here today. It proved that a single typist in New York might put into automatic and simultaneous operation in a thousand widely scattered newspaper offices a thousand linotype machines which would set type as perfectly as if operated by human hands.

Frank E. Gannett, head of the Gannett newspapers, in the presence of a hundred publishers, editors, scientists and business men, threw the switch that set in motion the new device known as the teletypesetter.

Moved by Invisible Hands.
Keys on the keyboards moved as if pressed by invisible hands. The little brass molds of letters dropped into place. Large levers moved swiftly and smoothly and cast lines of type into the "stick" ready for the next process in the making of a newspaper.

Two yawning spaces before the keyboards denoted the absence of human operators. Their functions were supplied by a stream of perforated ticker tape which was fed into the typesetting machines. No human hands had touched the two machines—one a Linotype machine and the other an Intertype machine.

May Denote Signal Advance.
As the tape continued its passage through the teletypesetters the spectators broke into an animated discussion of the possibilities of the new device and fired questions at Mr. Gannett and his associates.

The secret of the new device is an electric typewriter which perforates ticker tape, each group of perforations corresponding to a letter or numeral. The code on the tape is then flashed electrically into a newspaper office, perhaps a thousand miles away, and a tape in the latter office is similarly perforated. The second tape is then put through a machine attached to the Linotype machine and electrical impulses translate the code into the impressions of the keys on the typesetting machine.

HIS BIGGEST GOOD WILL JOB IS NOW AHEAD OF HOOVER

Chile, Argentina, Brazil
Big Military Powers.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Copyright, 1928, by The Chicago Tribune.
ABOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND,
Dec. 6.—Sailing away from Lima, Peru, the city of kings, with all the hopes accorded to foreign potentates, President Elect Herbert C. Hoover will meet his most difficult South American contacts in the next countries to be visited — Chile, Argentina and Brazil.

These have the most powerful military forces, and Argentina openly is against the United States policy in Latin America. Argentina refused to send delegates to the Washington Pan-American conference on arbitration last week. The new Argentine president, Hipolito Irigoyen, who is anti-American, refused to confirm the appointment of two delegates named by his predecessor. Argentina also threw a wrench into the machinery at the recent Pan-American conference at Havana.

National Feeling Strong.
A United States of South America is the dream of some politicians south of the equator. The situation here is the same now as if the Bear flag of California retained its independent status. National feeling, however, is just as strong as in the United States, and each flag and anthem is the subject of reverent attention and sacrifice of millions.

Mr. Hoover realizes he will only make a start, and that enlightenment on the character and purpose of the United States will pave the way to peace and prosperity. The Monroe Doctrine is the only way to save the Latinization of this part of the world, he is convinced.

Learns About U. S. Navy.
Incidentally, the President Elect is learning much about the United States navy and getting the spirit of its officers and men. His daily contacts aboard ship will have an effect on his naval policies. Information on ships and the purpose and Ideas of leading naval officials in pamphlet form are circulated around the ship, containing figures on comparative world tonnage and articles bearing on the needs of the navy.

With the exception of a halt at Antofagasta to receive officials of Bolivia, the next stop will be the last on the west coast. The party will leave the Maryland at Valparaiso next Monday for a trip across the Andes to the east coast, and the beginning of the homeward voyage.

Bolivians on Way to Coast.
ANTOFAGASTA, Chile, Dec. 6.— [U.P.]—Foreign Minister Falcón will head the Bolivian delegation which goes aboard the Maryland to meet Herbert Hoover. It was announced by the Bolivian chief of protocol, who arrived here today. A special train is bringing the delegation from La Paz,

SHIP COLLISION IN HOOVER PATH COSTS 17 LIVES

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
VALPARAISO, Chile, Dec. 6.—Seventeen persons are believed to have perished in a collision at 1 a. m. between two Chilean coastwise vessels off Iquique, 800 miles north of Valparaiso, according to official advice from maritime authorities.
The two vessels were the America of 1,870 tons, and the Quintero of 900 tons. The Quintero sank in a few minutes, but the America was able to reach Iquique with the survivors and three bodies. Fourteen persons are missing.

HOOVER WILL SEE HOW 2,000 YANKS DEVELOP CHILE

American Investments
Over $500,000,000.

BY DON FERNANDO.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 6.—Southward runs the course of the American industrial empire, and from the El Ten-iente mine, at Rancagua, the second largest mine in the world, and today
it represents an investment of more than $50,000,000.

American invasion of the Chilean nitrate industry has been more recent, but already observers are seeing the day when American interests will control. This, too, is important to the United States because American farmers consume almost half of Chile's total nitrate production of some 2,000,000 tons a year.

Another major mineral industry in which American dollars are playing an important role, as represented in the huge investment of the Bethlehem Chile Iron mines at Cruz Grande, is iron mining. The reserve deposits of iron ore in Chile are estimated at one billion tons.

Commercially, the largest American company in Chile is W. R. Grace & Co., founded in Peru in 1950 by an Irish immigrant of the same name, who later became mayor of New York,
and whose company has financed nations.

U. S. Is Chile's Best Market.
In turn the United States has become Chile's best market for raw materials, agricultural products and metals, and during 1927 Americans purchased 31 per cent of Chile's total exports, valued at approximately $58, 600,000.

Today more than 1,000 American manufacturers, selling everything from lipstick and rouge to automobiles and electric locomotives, are actively engaged in the Chilean market, and there are more than fifty American branch houses and factories in Valparaiso and Santiago.

Story of Business Romance.
The story of American industrial growth is one of the romances of big business. The American copper empire in Chile is the largest single industrial stake from the Rio Grande to the straits, and it has given the Americans the reputation in Chile for conquering the impossible.

Chile is the second largest copper producing nation in the world. In the three American copper mines in Chile are known to exist some 20,000,000 tons of fine copper, or 45 per cent of the known deposits in the world.

The ore deposits are low grade, however, and for centuries they were idle until American industry and genius found it possible to work them at a profit.

Guggenheim's Pioneered Way.
The Guggenheims pioneered the way and today are the biggest factor.
In 1908 they purchased the El Ten-iente mine, at Rancagua, the second largest mine in the world, and today
it represents an investment of more
than $50,000,000.

FATHER OF TWO IS SLAIN; BLAME TERRORIST GANG

Another chapter in the activities of Lima terrorists was closed yesterday when a coroner's jury investigating the death of Salvatore Lima, 33 years old, 1422 Mohawk street, returned a verdict of death by gunshot wounds at the hands of unknown persons. Lima, the father of two children, was shot to death in front of 1269 Clybourn avenue yesterday, shortly after he had left his home to go to work. He was employed as a section foreman by the Illinois Central railroad.

Both Lima's wife and his brother-in-law, Tony Vaso, 25 years old, 1438 Mohawk street, testified at the inquest that they knew of no motive for the shooting. They said Lima had received a letter eight years ago demanding $5,000 under penalty of death, but had received no threats recently.

John Donaldson, 81 years old, 2218

Wednesday by the Rev. J. W.

gregation both are members. The couple had kept their wedding plans secret until the last minute. They had known each other several years, both having been active in church work. Donaldson is a public ac-

DO AWAY WITH TRIAL BY JURY, HUGHES URGES

Hope of Justice Lies in Judges, He Says.

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Addressing the New York branch of the Federal Bar association at its first annual dinner tonight, Charles Evans Hughes declared that the hope of progress in the administration of justice lay not in juries but in conscientious, able, industrious judges in control of the business of their courts.

"Give the judges all the power he has and more, too," said Mr. Hughes. "Of course, you must get able, conscientious men on the bench, but you will not get better judges by curtailing their functions and making them mere moderators of juries."

"Get rid of jury trials as much as possible. Of course, there are many cases where they will be necessary. It is very difficult now to get a proper jury. Often it is impossible to get a satisfactory one."

Judge Keystone of Justice.

"The ideal of justice is incarnated in the judge. We could get along without a session of congress for five years, or without our legislatures for a time, but the courts of justice must function all the time. We are honoring the judicial ideal tonight—the judge, the best servant in our democracy."

Mr. Hughes said while compensation had been increased somewhat, the federal judges here could still "look across to where justices of special sessions and even judges of the children's court were receiving nearly twice as much compensation as they were, who were thus making a sacrifice to serve the government instead of the state."

Admitting that federal courts were not popular, Mr. Hughes strongly opposed any movement to limit their jurisdiction. He approved recommendations made by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, toastmaster, for more federal judges and a new federal building in New York City.

Against Curtailment.

Mr. Hughes disapproved thoroughly the idea that the federal courts should not be permitted to handle constitutional cases.

He suggested that abuses of the law should be taken up and cured without changing the federal courts' jurisdiction. This jurisdiction, he declared, should be maintained as it is.

The dinner was given in honor of Judges of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, United States District courts of the southern and eastern districts of New York, and the district of New Jersey, and also of the justices of the Customs court. It was the first occasion upon which judges of these district have ever assembled together.

THE POINT OF TIME IN THE CRUISER BILL.

President Coolidge, in asking congress to pass the cruiser bill, dropped into the recommendation the phrase "with the elimination of the time clause." The bill means only to pass the senate. The house of representatives sent it over before adjournment. Its friends in the senate believe that it would be a serious mistake to take up the time clause. It is not apparent why the President suggested it. He has been eminently sensible in resisting the assumption that the Kellogg peace treaty, now submitted for ratification, outlawed a navy increase. That assumption has been the cornerstone of American pacifism and it has become a creed in Europe, particularly in Great Britain. It is not to be believed that many Englishmen believe that this is a fair interpretation of the treaty, but it is such an advantageous one for Great Britain that it is next to impossible for them not to use it. If it worked, then all the trouble of another try at a naval limitation conference would be done away with. The United States would have surrendered on the very point with which it broke up the Geneva conference—the right to build a limited number of the type of cruisers which is navy peculiarly necessary. President Coolidge, Hugh Gibson and some hard bodied admirals held out stubbornly for this right and allowed the conference to end in failure rather than surrender.

The bill before the senate provides for the type of cruiser the American navy needs, the 10,000 ship with 8 inch guns. It has been contended wisely that the bill shall be passed before the Kellogg treaty is ratified. Then the United States will be better fortified to take its chances with the unknown consequences which may be contained in the treaty. One of these consequences may be a determined pacifist attack upon all American defense. That is expected. It is imperative to save these cruisers before it comes.

The protection is in the time clause which the President, strangely enough, asks congress to take out. It would require that the ships be built within a specified period. That will be mandatory and construction must begin. It will put the ships in the water. They will be in the fleet and not on paper. An authorization of the cruisers to be built virtually at discretion will be merely an invitation to the pacifist organizations to see that they never are built. It is unfortunate that Mr. Coolidge made such a recommendation. It was bound to come from the opposition if it were based on other lines. Now it seems to have government support.

The senate is warranted in opposing the President in this. National interest requires it and it ought not to be a party matter. It is plainly a case where partnership stops at the water's edge. Mr. Coolidge may have yielded to quiet a sentimental storm. He may have been seeking something he could trade at another international disarmament conference. If there is to be another such conference the United States had better enter it with cruisers which are rather than with cruisers which may be.

OPPORTUNITY IN LATIN AMERICAN TRADE.

The department of commerce report, which is an encouraging statement of the healthy economic situation in this country, contains important statistical and interpretative material. In the section of the report prepared by Dr. Julius Klein, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, there is an analysis of world markets in which the importance of Latin America as a field for development is clearly indicated.

"The increasing proportion of manufactured goods in the trade has carried with it a decided shift in the geographic distribution of our exports," Dr. Klein remarks. "Europe, itself highly developed in manufactures, and a great importer of foodstuffs and raw materials, was formerly by far the largest buyer of United States goods. On the average from 1816 to 1914 almost exactly two-thirds of all American exports went to that continent. Although Europe itself has taken steadily increasing quantities of our manufactures, the expansion in this class of trade has naturally been far greater with the continents less developed industrially, and as a consequence the share of Europe in our exports has fallen to less than half. The greatest gain in the export trade has been in sales to South America, Asia, Oceania, and Africa. To each of these continents our exports in 1927-28 were from three and one-half to four and one-half times as great in value as during the average pre-war year."

Although there has been a large increase in exports to Asia, Oceania, and Africa, the bulk of the sales to those continents is far below that to Latin America, according to Dr. Klein's statistics. He Latin America appears to be the field for the attention of American exporters, who should not be content with a static or even gradually increasing foreign trade, but should seek markets where there is opportunity for abundant expansion. Mr. Hoover is visiting the countries of Central and South America. He is stimulating good will among our neighbors on the continent. Good will is a valuable sentiment among nations. It is also a valuable basis upon which to do business. The commercial opportunities which Mr. Hoover creates during his good will trip should not be neglected by American interests. The receptivity of these Latin American markets, which without stimulation would consume a larger and larger proportion of United States products, will be quickened by the visit of the President. It is an extent which we think will be definitely demonstrated in the next annual report of the department of commerce.

The invitation to market our surplus in Latin America and to increase the consumption of its products could not be made more clear. The opportunity for reciprocal trade relations is without precedent. The vigorous efforts of American business men to develop the market must supplement the active aid of the government in promoting trade.

THE NEW YORK CENTRAL AND THE CHICAGO TERMINAL.

Governor Elect Emmerson has an encouraging appreciation of an important state topic, the railroad terminal problem in Chicago. He has pledged himself to promote a settlement for the creation of new terminal facilities for the railroads now entering Chicago in the Illinois Central, Polk street, La Salle street, and Harrison street depots. The legislature has the power to exert decisive pressure upon the railroads, and we hope that Mr. Emmerson will direct action for an immediate solution of this important transportation question.

The terminal project is a problem. It has been a problem for years. And the railroads appear satisfied that it shall continue to be a problem for years to come. There is an absence of any initiative to bring the matter to an issue. One of the railroads responsible for these Fabian tactics is the New York Central, which has repeatedly taken refuge in indecision which amounts to indifference.

The attitude of the New York Central is explicable. With a directorate and management recruited from the east, there is a resistance to any program calling for an investment in the welfare of the west. It is a case of absentee ownership. The New York Central has been called a thoroughly bad citizen. More accurately, it is not a citizen at all. It is an alien taking its profits from Chicago and sending them to the home folks in New York.

The New York Central is electrified in New York and has a terminal in keeping with the city's architectural ensemble. The railroad gave its home folks this improvement, but only grudgingly. The home folks were not so tolerant. They put an end to quibbling preliminaries and got action. What the New York Central undertook reluctantly in New York City has paid tremendous dividends, both to the city and to the railroad. The development of the air rights has exceeded the anticipated returns which the city held out as compensation to the railroad for its initial investment. And to demonstrate its complete indifference to the interests of Chicago, the New York Central has undertaken an electrification program in Cleveland, which, by the way, is the residence of two of its directors.

We have no reason to expect the railroads to undertake a development of their properties in Chicago without prodding from the city and the state. Neither the prospect of increased revenue through investment in modern facilities nor the fair demands of the city have stimulated the railroads to action. Agitation has not been productive. Mr. Emmerson seems to realize that the state has the obligation of disturbing the inertia of the railroads. It is time for the city council to direct its attention to the terminal question under a policy of coercion if the railroads do not come to an immediate understanding.

BRIDGE OPENINGS.

Harbor Master Agnew's record of bridge openings discloses that the Michigan avenue bridge was raised 1,994 times from Dec. 1, 1927, to Dec. 1, 1928. There were 1,371 openings for sandboats, derricks, dredges, piledrivers, and yachts, while the bridge went up only 623 times for steamships engaged in important commerce. Furthermore, of the openings for small craft, 947, precisely half of the total number, were occasioned by three sandboats, two of which nearly collided at the boulevard bridge on Tuesday and delayed traffic for twenty-three minutes.

These petty craft are permitted to operate under the protection of the war department despite the fact that federal supervisors are authorized to regulate river traffic in the public interest. It is just as much a federal duty to protect the public interest as it is to maintain the accessibility of the waterways. This has failed to do in the case of Chicago. The business and convenience of the city the government permits to be disturbed while a couple of sandboat skippers race each other through the channel.

The city council now has under consideration the proposal to close the bridges except during the early morning hours. Failure of the aldermen to adopt this proposal will justify the suspicion that the operators of these offending small craft are in favor at the city hall. If the war department falls to accept the city's proposal it will be proof that Washington is prejudiced against Chicago. The city has documentary evidence with which to open negotiations. There is every reason to bring the matter to an immediate issue.

Editorial of the Day

[SIOUX CITY JOURNAL.]

The attack made by a Mexican member of the chamber of deputies upon President Hoover's good will tour of Latin American countries and Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow's work in Mexico is not the least exciting or surprising. It merely demonstrates that there are radicals everywhere and that Mexico has her quota of the same as have other countries.

Herman Laborde, the labor member of the Mexican chamber who made the attack from the floor, did not represent Mexican sentiment in official life. He was immediately answered by various other members who warmly defended Mr. Hoover's tour of Latin American countries and reasserted the attacks upon Mr. Morrow. The hope was expressed that Mr. Hoover also would visit Mexico, and confidence in Ambassador Morrow's good work in Mexico City was shown.

Senator Laborde succeeded in doing just one thing: He forced into the foreground the real Mexican sentiment regarding the United States. The responses to his assault upon both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Morrow were so spontaneous that no one is left in doubt as to the attitude taken toward this country by Mexican leaders. The same thing might happen anywhere, for example in our own congress. Radicals are not confined to any one country.

CONTINUE THE FIGHT ON BOVINE T.B.

R. C. H. MAYO warns us that we must not let up on the fight against bovine tuberculosis. He quotes Cobbett as saying that one-sixteenth of all the deaths from tuberculosis are due to bovine tuberculosis; one-fifth of all the bone and joint tuberculosis cases are due to bacilli derived from cows, principally through milk. One-fourth of all the bone and joint tuberculosis in children under 10 years of age and one-third of all the disease in children under 5 years of age are due to bacilli from this source.

The most important measure for combating bovine tuberculosis is pasteurization of milk. There must be no letup until the people in the small cities and towns get pasteurized milk. People must abandon the custom of drinking raw milk. The second is the eradication of tuberculosis among dairy cows by the sustained use of the tuberculin test. Illinois began using this test some eight years ago. They must continue for about five more years to get the situation in hand. The policy of the other old dairy districts about parallels that of Illinois.

Dr. Mayo thinks we must also be on guard against avian tuberculosis. He has reported two cases of tuberculosis in human beings which he thinks were due to bird tubercle bacilli. He refers to cases of renal tuberculosis due to this bacillus seen by Thomas and Jennings of Minneapolis. He quotes Murphy of the Rockefeller Institute as having found avian tubercle bacilli in cases of that baffling human ailment, Hodgkins disease.

There is a moderately extensive European literature reporting cases of human tuberculosis caused by the bird bacillus. No one else in America has done so much on avian tuberculosis as Van Ess of the University of Nebraska. He finds it widespread among chickens and hogs. It is threatening both the poultry business and the hog business in an alarming fashion.

Van Ess is not certain as to how much of a direct menace this bacillus is to human beings. He accepts some of the reports of human cases due to avian bacilli as being correct, though he has not found evidence of such infection in his very wide experience. However, he recognizes that there is some danger to humans and he thinks there may be more. In the United States this form of bacillus does not seem to have learned how to destroy human beings, but "we do not know how soon an avian organism in a mammal may become capable of producing mammalian disease with regularity."

His method of preventing avian tuberculosis is to kill all chickens by or before they reach two years of age. He says that about through her profitable egg-laying life at two years of age. At that age she is good for the table. Tuberculosis is not very prevalent in chickens under two years of age.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.
Mrs. M. K. writes: "My father had high blood pressure. He died of it. I have a small amount of meat. Now I have it and my doctor says I can have only the white meat of chicken. Do you think a little meat or bacon harmful?"

1. Is cocoa too rich a drink for high blood pressure?
2. Is 1 egg a day too much protein?
3. When and how can I take a look on diet for high blood pressure?

REPLY.
1. I think it has been established that eating meat is not an important factor in high blood pressure. Therefore, I think you could eat a moderate amount of meat daily without doing yourself any harm. There is no great difference between veal and meat, or between white meat and red.
2. No.
3. No. I assume the egg is in place of other protein. You can eat as much egg and a small amount of meat.
4. Send 10 cents and a stamped, addressed envelope for our booklet on blood pressure. You can get larger books from any store selling medical books. Every book store should have a copy of our booklet. We can send you one when you write us.

LONG WORKING HOURS.
Chicago, Dec. 4.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—Will you please advise an employer can work office help from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. or 5:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m., and evenings until 10:30 to 11 o'clock or later, whenever they happen to be in town?
2. Are salaries due on 1st of month, paid 8th, due on 15th, paid five or six days later? On top of which one has to pay overtime?
3. When overtime is done, no supper money, no compensation is given what-over. When employed no arrangement to this effect was made—no word as to overtime.
4. In general, yes, if they have agreed to such terms of employment. 5. Same. 6. Your rights depend almost entirely on your contract of employment. If you will give us these facts we will endeavor to advise you further.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.
PUBLIC DUMP.
Chicago, Dec. 1.—(Friend of the People.)—I have a building at 1158 Eddy street. The street cleaners dump the dirt they have collected from blocks around in the alley right up against the fence of my property. They then carry this dirt into the yard and basement flat of the building? Is this allowed?
Report is made that street dirt has been removed and instead of being dumped in another location for the temporary storage of street sweepings.
THOMAS H. STRAIN,
Superintendent of Streets.

LEASE VS. MARRIAGE.
Chicago, Nov. 25.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—I have signed a lease for an apartment for one year. Four months is up. I am marrying a man from out of town, hence I must move out of town. 1. Can the landlord hold me to the lease? 2. Can he hold my furniture?
A. C.

1. You will remain liable. 2. He cannot prevent your moving if your rent is paid to date. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE SECOND STATION.

Jesus Assumes the Cross.

He bends beneath the cross. Once, as a lad, He scattered crumbs for birds beneath this tree And climbed its friendly branches; cried to be Rescued by patient Joseph when He had Reached frightening heights. And now, the cruel weight

Of that same tree cuts deeper than the red Of lash-strips or the thorns around His head, But not as deeply as the endless hate Of men in darkness, crying: "Crucify." Small wonder that they do not comprehend A god whose flesh they tear, whose will they bend To ugliness—a god who lived to die.

Slowly. He moves along the fevered street Where, yesterday, were palms about His feet.

BOY BLUE.

CALL money went up to 12 per cent on the New York stock exchange yesterday. Well, we know what we'd like to call money when it gets up that high, but this is a family column.

R. H. L.: That morning I awoke in one of those poisonous humors—you know, the w. k. morning-after variety (and I hadn't even the consolation of having had the night before), but as I tottered from the grave—er, I should say, sleep—a sudden realization of the date flooded my alleged brain with a glow like a full-blown sunset. I burned the breakfast porridge in my frenzy, while as for the toast—but let us rush. Finally by using "Women and children first" as a battlecry and tramping down strong men I got one! And there it was—page 21. Hot-diggity—DOG! Don't let 'em kid you—twenty million voters can be wrong.

HAPPY II.
P. S.: With the little voice I have left may I express my gratitude to you for having included "When a Feller Needs a Friend"?

LET THE UNITED STATES annex Canada!
Why? Well, we'll tell you. Dry Commissioner Doran says we ought to ask Canada to help us enforce our prohibition laws. Of course this country really ought to be able to enforce its own laws, but, anyhow, if Canada belonged to us we wouldn't have to ask embarrassing favors. Annex Canada! Write to your congressman today.

RHL: England's consideration for her subjects is wholly responsible for England's predominance—which is rather a heavy subject on such a bright morning as this. Let me forewarn you a bit so that your future analysis of the relative merits of England and America may not be wholly without profit. . . . England has finally solved the problem of razor blades. She resharpenes them and gives them to the soldiers of her vast army and navy. Which is as good as turning out the lights in the government buildings at a quarter of nine an' makin' the lady clerks use their chewin' gum for nucleage.

SEVEN DOLLARS a pound was the price paid for that Iowa prize steer on the hoof—over eight thousand dollars. If an Iowa farmer ever gets us to weep over his woes again he'll have to squeeze an onion on to our hankies or throw tear-bombs at us.

Yes, We Liked That One, Too.

Why, Dick Little, you old reprobate. The idea of keeping us in suspense all this time. Here I have been hoping that you were turning out the lights in the government buildings at a quarter of nine an' makin' the lady clerks use their chewin' gum for nucleage. Well, for one, I'm canceling all my orders for Christmas cards and am sending Linebooks instead. I'm for Al and Katie!

Try to Exclude a Soprano! Just Try It, That's All.

R. H. L.: The radio commission would have done better to exclude sopranos from broadcasting than re-locating stations. OSKOSH TRUNK.

Yeah—He's Stealing Sandy's Stuff.

RHL: President Elect Monaca of Nicaragua, in an interview, that the marines ought to be cut down to 1,000. . . . But that's an old, old idea—General Sandino thought of that two years ago.

AND NOBODY gets the peace prize this year. So the Nobel committee decided yesterday. And we thought this was the banner year in the anti-war business, what with the signing of Mr. Kellogg's peace pact by all the nations of the world. The Nobel committee must know something we don't know, or else it thought somebody was trying to slip something over.

Yes, He Belongs to the Bigga Fatta Bluffas.

R. H. L.: I saw him in front of a department store—whiskers, red pants, boots, pillow-tummy, and everything. Then I saw another guy in the same get-up in front of another department store. THE BANANA STRIKERS in Colombia are destroying fruit crops, and, gosh, how we dread it, are "impervious American interests." Turn out the marines and let 'em pour oil on the troubled waters. Bananas oil.

Certainly.

R. H. L.: I bought one, opened it in the middle, and peeked at the pages. No, it wasn't there. I closed my eyes and chose a page at random, looked again, and still I didn't see it. And when I DID find it, page 21, hurrah, hurrah. I went back and bought 35 more copies before I skipping only word. Then I read as far as "Envy" in one sitting, and then I slowly turned the back cover, trying to keep all of it fresh in my mind, and then I saw (thisgodsamastadistridit). Will you tell me if it's pronounced clawone (Frenchlike)? Is it a bananese's wall or just a piece of bananery? Or maybe it's an inhibition? TOFFER.

AL IS BREAKING up the zoo in his back yard at Albany and doesn't know what disposition to make of the animals. Send the monkeys to Tennessee, governor. FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 7, 1863.

WASHINGTON.—President Lincoln's message to congress is not yet finished, but he expects to send the last pages to the printer tomorrow afternoon. It is known that the main feature of the message is the President's position on reconstruction.

WASHINGTON.—The rebels crossed the Rapidan at three o'clock on the night of Dec. 5, three or four regiments at each. They now occupy the north bank.

WASHINGTON.—The lady managers of the Northwestern fair, recently held at Chicago, through G. N. Arnold, presented President Lincoln a fine gold watch, the donation of James H. Hoos of Chicago. It was presented to the President as the person who made the largest donation to the fair, the sum of $25,000.

ALBANY, N. Y.—The boiler of the steamer Isaac Newton exploded when the vessel was opposite Spuyten Duyck.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 7, 1898.

BERLIN.—Emperor William opened the Reichstag in the presence of members of the high nobility, the generals and other military officers. The emperor sat in the grand balcony and the diplomatic corps occupied the adjacent tier. Taking up colonial affairs, the emperor said the German government would direct its efforts to further promotion of its economic relations with China.

CHICAGO.—Opponents of the fifty year street car franchise ordinance, introduced in council by Ald. Lyman, awoke in wrath yesterday. Before night a general mass meeting for Sunday afternoon at Central Music hall and five other mass meetings in other parts of the city had been arranged to voice the indignation of the people against the long term grant.

CHICAGO.—Superintendent of Schools E. Benjamin Andrews withdrew his resignation and President Harris said there no longer is any contention between Dr. Andrews and the board of education.

NEW YORK.—The wedding of Mrs. Samuel J. Colgate and the earl of Strathmore took place at noon in the church of Grace church. The Rev. William R. Huntington, rector of the church, officiated. The ceremonies were comparatively simple, due to the recent death in Germany of Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, cousin of the bridegroom.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 7, 1918.

LONDON.—If the allies insist upon the delivery of the former German emperor and crown prince to an international court of justice, Holland will yield, but will first urge that the allies content themselves with an undertaking by Holland to intern them for life in one of the Dutch colonies, an Amsterdam dispatch says.

AMSTERDAM.—British troops entered Cologne at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Dec. 6.

LONDON.—Great Britain will demand 40 million dollars for Great Britain and her dominions as reparation for the war, according to the Daily Mail.

PARIS.—The opening of the peace conference is set for the first week in January. It is expected the deliberations will last about four months. WASHINGTON.—President Wilson read from wireless dispatches Winston Spencer Churchill's renewed declaration for British naval supremacy. The President evinced great interest in the bulletin, but did not comment.

APPROVES BIRTH CONTROL SENTENCE.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The sentence of Judge Harrison Ewing prohibiting Otto Kouris and his wife, Helen, from having any more children for three years is most commendable. It is the most effective deterrent for our present crime wave and youthful irresponsibility. In this case, which is one of countless similar cases, the practice of birth control is the only solution that sociologists and biologists have been hammering at for years. It remains for this judge and others who have the courage to command practical application.

If not with the parents it is difficult to imagine where the responsibility rests for children such as the three Kouris children. If it is not a crime to have children and, because of poverty, cruelty and neglect make them potential criminals and morons, what is it? Such parents are a menace to society and the judge is well within his rights by regarding them as such, notwithstanding the sentiments of the Rev. Bishop Schrembs. GEORGE SAMUEL, BAYVIEW.

A CHEER FOR JUDGE EWING.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Let's have a cheer for Judge Ewing, who sentenced the young married couple with three children to practice birth control for a period of three years. Fortunately, the Ohio laws permit the dissemination of birth control instruction by physicians. But there are other states where giving this information is regarded as a criminal offense and punishable by five years in the penitentiary. E. W. R.

A BIRTH FOR ELDERLY TEACHERS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The financial condition of the Chicago schools makes some of us think of the teachers who were retired on emeritus pay several years ago. They were reinstated after litigation and I infer from articles in the papers that they received the difference between the emeritus pay and their stipulated salaries. The amount involved was in excess of $200,000.

The school teachers' ages were against them and it is possible that they were unable to earn any money while on a retired list, but the papers did not enlighten us on that point. If they had been reasonably diligent they could have obtained jobs with the generous sanitary board.

REPEAL THE VOLSTEAD ACT.

Your editorial "Repeal the Volstead Act" was beyond reproach. My sentiments exactly. I have seen so much bad liquor being dispensed openly and under cover in practically every state of the Union that to deny that the condition of witness exists is to convict yourself of being weak-minded. In the state of Iowa this summer I saw more liquor being sold and drunk than I have discovered in the terrible city of Chicago. Iowa wants prohibition with a stick in it. Keep up the good work.

AIR PICNIC OVER 15 LANDS DUE TO BEGIN TODAY

Patterson Pioneer Cruise Starts at Miami.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

(Copyright, 1928: By the New York Times.)
Miami, Fla., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The air yacht Liberty rides gracefully on the waters of Biscayne bay tonight. The fresh paint on her trim and sturdy wings catches the reflections of searchlights.

Propeller and nickel trimmings gleam like silver above the gray hull; she's poised like a water bird to take the air early tomorrow on the first hop of her 10,000 mile cruise around the Caribbean sea.

Capt. J. M. Patterson's pioneer mission, to inaugurate the new sport of Kings over the blue waters and emerald islands of the tropical paradise south of here, is ready for departure, after months of preparation.

On Picnic to the Clouds.
Only harassed mothers making arrangements for the family picnic can appreciate the multiplication of detail and last minute efforts required for an aerial outing to the turquoise picnic grounds of the clouds.

Only a departing doughboy, loaded down with a rubber bath tub, ear-muffs, and a family album, could ap-

Head for a Head

LONDON, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—A special to the London Evening News from Lahore, Punjab, India, said today that Amir Amanullah, khan of Afghanistan and Bacha Saku, the son of a water carrier, who is leading the rebels in that country, have each put a price on the other's head. Bacha Saku organized an attack by rebel tribes on Jelalabad. Offers of a huge reward for his dead body were posted along the Kabul road. In true Afghan spirit he replied by posting offers for the head of the king. Determined efforts have been made by the rebels to halt all traffic on the roads and Kabul is virtually cut off.

precitate the mass of supplies, spare parts, equipment, baggage, etc., that constitutes the total burden of five and one-half tons.

The Liberty's twin Hornet motors, spinning out the power of 1,100 horses and making her the highest powered amphibian in the world, will be none too much for the load we carry.

Five in Party.
Owner, guest and crew, numbering five, have participated in the work of preparation. On the shoulders of the owner has rested the responsibility for originating the novel idea, organizing the party, assigning duties, indicating the route and incidentally supplying about $75,000 worth of financial lubrication for this inexpensive little jaunt.

Lieut. Fred Becker, naval reserve officer and veteran aviator, who will pilot the bus, has been in charge of the amphibian since she left the Sikorsky factory at College Point, Long Island, two weeks ago.

He has nothing to worry about, except everything. Our chief engineer is Charles Joseph Butler. Uncle Sam's navy rates him as one of the best aviation mechanics.

We have with us six feet and two inches of radio operator built on the general design of a wireless tower. He is John Russell Roe, and his finger on the key of our radio apparatus will be the means by which we expect to keep in communication while in the air.

Weather Reports for Craft.

All the Central American stations of the Tropical Radio Telegraph company will be listening in, and we also will have the advantage of the weather reports supplied by the courtesy of the Pan-American airways.

As the one and only invited guest on-board the air yacht, I am a supernumerary and added starter, whose duties on the cruise will range from cabin boy to chief of the protocol.

Surface craft sailing from one foreign port to another carry clearance papers signed by consuls, but in the air it's different. Uncle Sam has no international arrangements with any country in the world covering air travel.

Efforts to arrive at some agreement facilitating this international aerial communication cover many pages of typewritten technical reports of special committees appointed by the Pan-American union.

Will Visit Fifteen Countries.

The state department in Washington reported the results of its extensive negotiations with the 15 countries we expect to visit.

The Cuban government permits the proposed flight, but the plane can land only under certain conditions. Mexico granted permission without conditions for stops at Cosumel Island and Puerto Morelos on the Yucatan mainland.

The colonial administration of British Honduras welcomes our arrival in Belize, the capital, but suggests that if we arrive on a Saturday afternoon we land in the harbor instead of the flying field, as otherwise it might interfere with the cricket game.

The government of Guatemala granted permission to enter the port of San Jose. Honduras put its official O. K. on our landing at Tegucigalpa, or Amapala.

El Salvador granted permission for our flight over its territory, and for stops at San Salvador and Acapulco.

Nicaragua, through its foreign office, permits stops at Managua, San Juan del Norte, and Bluefields.

Costa Rica notified Washington that an official welcome would be awaiting the air cruise at San Jose and at Puntarenas.

The American legation at Panama reported that the government of Panama would welcome our arrival.

Colombia informed the American minister at Bogota that the Colombian government granted permission for the flight, subject to numerous conditions.

The Netherlands West Indies office communicated that we would

UNION AGENT SHOT IN LOOP PISTOL BATTLE

Alva Halstead, business agent for the Elevator Operators and Starters union, and Emanuel Coscino, 3240 West Huron street, a former member of the organization, fought a pistol battle yesterday at noon in the union offices on the sixteenth floor of the Capitol building.

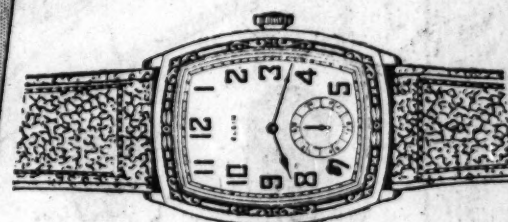

Halstead, although wounded in the shoulder by one of Coscino's bullets, disarmed his opponent after firing at him several times, and held him for the police.

At the Central station Coscino said that he had been dropped from the union for failure to take out insurance, adding that Halstead had refused to reinstate him.

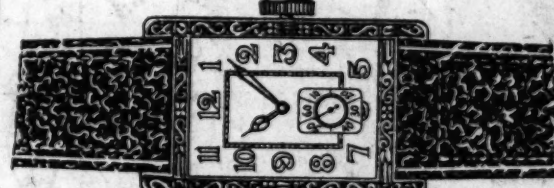

"I'll kill him yet for taking the bread out of my mouth," he declared. "All I want is a chance to make an honest living. I've got a right to kill the man that keeps me from doing that."

RADICAL CHIEF OF ARGENTINA PUTS FOOT ON RADICALS

BY HAROLD TATAM.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Dec. 6.—After an interval of two months the congress sanctioned federal intervention in the provinces of Mendoza and San Juan, President Irigoyen finally has taken action by sending Dr. Berrani and Dr. Pizarro as representatives of the federal authorities to take over the governments in the respective provinces.

The federal commissioners will arrive at a moment when chaos reigns in the administrations of both provinces. The governments are composed of members of the "Anti-personalist" movement, section of the radical party. The province of Mendoza for many years has been the scene of political intrigue highly detrimental to the province's prosperity, but in no way comparable to the troubles besetting San Juan. San Juan is notorious as Argentina's "turbulent province." Its governors barely escaped assassinations of political gunmen.

In addition to the above mentioned provinces of Santa Fe, Entre Rios, Corrientes and San Luis. There are more or less booked for federal intervention, which already has been approved by the chamber of deputies. The senate has not yet voted on the project.

It is more than probable that no less than six Argentine provinces shortly will lose their autonomous status until they have put their houses in order sufficiently to persuade President Irigoyen that they are ready to return to self-government.

MEXICAN LABOR AND GOVERNMENT BREAK RELATIONS

Portes Gil Charged with Betraying Workers.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
MEXICO CITY, Dec. 6.—Having formed "one of the rocks of the government" for more than four years, the Mexican Labor party, after a stormy session today, resolved to pull out, bag and baggage, from the government hand wagon.

The resolution of the C. R. O. M., or Mexican Federation of Labor, read: "All posts occupied by members of the C. R. O. M. in federal and state governments are to be vacated, and in the future no member of the C. R. O. M. is to accept or hold a government post; C. R. O. M. delegates are to be retired from the mixed commission studying the new labor law drafted by Provisional President Emilio Portes Gil and presented by him to congress; the sessions of the C. R. O. M. now in holding in connection with the ninth convention are to be withdrawn from the Hidalgo theater, as the theater is government property, and to be continued in Tivoli Palace."

Bitter Attack on President.
During the session today a bitter attack was made on Provisional President Portes Gil by Vicente Lombardo Toledano, radical labor leader. The latter said that the president had deserted the Labor party; that the law presented to Congress by President Portes Gil for reforming the labor

SHUMAKER STARTS NEW FIGHT TO EVADE THAT 60 DAY PRISON TERM

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Attorneys for the Rev. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, today filed with the state Supreme court a brief in support of Shumaker's demurrer to the petition of Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom, that Shumaker again be committed to the state penal farm to serve the sixty days' sentence given him by the court on contempt charges.

Shumaker's attorneys charge that Gilliom proceeded in an improper manner to reopen the case. They assert that it could be brought before the court anew only through an entirely new proceeding. They argue that the state constitution clearly gives to the governor the right to issue pardons in such cases.

The validity of the pardon issued by the governor is a proper question for the courts to decide, it is asserted in Shumaker's brief, "but it cannot be made an issue, except in a direct proceeding filed for that purpose."

law was altogether unsatisfactory to the Labor party and was a betrayal of the laborers, indicating the coming complete desertion of organized labor by the government and taking away the advantages of labor won through the revolution.

Complaints of Terrorism.
Señor Toledano bitterly complained that the Labor party had been compelled to keep quiet when the Obregonistas attacked the C. R. O. M. following the assassination of President Elect Alvaro Obregon in July and that the parties in Mexico City and various Mexican states, who harried the C. R. O. M. and threatened the lives of its officers, remained unpunished.

JUSTICE BAILEY'S WIDOW DIES.
Freeport, Ill., Dec. 6.—(P)—Mrs. Anna O. Bailey, 65, widow of Joseph Meade Bailey, at one time a justice of the Illinois Supreme court, died here today.

NATIONS MUST FEAR HOSTILITY OF ITALY—DUCE

Replies to French Charge of "Grab" Policy.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
ROME, Italy, Dec. 6.—When the Italian chamber of deputies today was asked to approve the treaty of commerce and friendship between Italy and Turkey, Premier Benito Mussolini unexpectedly seized the occasion to make a snappy reply to Premier Raymond Poincaré's insinuation last week that Italian imperialism was trying to grab every piece of unguarded land in the Mediterranean basin.

Premier Mussolini evidently was nettled by the French charges, but his speech was short and pointed. The treaty between the Turks and the Italians is most important, he said, because three years ago many clouds obscured the horizon of the Italo-Turk relations, but they were clouds raised by other interests, who wanted deliberately to disturb the Turks and Italians.

Policy of Friendship.
If Duce was referring to a period two years ago when the Italians were alleged to be contemplating a military descent on the coast of Adalia. Contrary to these allegations, he said Italy's Mediterranean policy is unequivocally concrete, as is shown by this treaty with Turkey. Its policy is one of honest and pacific collaboration of all the Mediterranean peoples respecting their national rights, and collaboration in their autonomous, political and economical development.

"The Turkish minister and I drew up this treaty last April in Milan," Premier Mussolini said truthfully. "From now on all countries must fear our hostility and appreciate our friendship."

He then paid many pretty compliments to Turkey's reconstruction under Dictator Mustafa Kemal, along western lines of civilization.

Deputies Cheer Duce.
Referring to the French hints that Italy is after Syria, the premier said: "Thus you see our imperialism is not menacing other peoples. We want to work with any one who will work with us."

All the deputies gave an ovation to Premier Mussolini and the Turkish ambassador, who was sitting in the gallery.

BILL TO KILL KLAN AND JAIL OFFENDERS PROPOSED BY BERGER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Legislation outlawing the Ku Klux Klan and providing heavy penalties for persons who appear disguised on public highways was proposed in the house today by Representative Victor L. Berger (N. J.).

Berger's bill would authorize the President to use the federal army and navy, and even state militia, if necessary, to enforce the law which fixes a maximum of ten years in prison and a $5,000 fine for violators.

"The recent campaign," Mr. Berger said, "has shown how deeply rooted race and religious prejudice has become. My bill places the forces of the government at the command of those who are entitled to protection, whether they be native or foreign born, whether they be white or Negro, and whether they be Catholic or Protestant. It proposes to remove a serious menace to the future welfare of our country."

He then paid many pretty compliments to Turkey's reconstruction under Dictator Mustafa Kemal, along western lines of civilization.

Deputies Cheer Duce.
Referring to the French hints that Italy is after Syria, the premier said: "Thus you see our imperialism is not menacing other peoples. We want to work with any one who will work with us."

All the deputies gave an ovation to Premier Mussolini and the Turkish ambassador, who was sitting in the gallery.

JUDGE SWEARS IN FIRST 4 JURORS IN RANIERI CASE

CRIMINAL COURT.
Marrill Gray, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Joseph Paskas and Edward Harris, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Penitentiary by Judge Thomas J. Lynch. B. Maderson, crime against nature, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Normandy. Henry Houser, burglary (changed to larceny), sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Charles A. Williams. James White, burglary (changed to larceny), sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Judge Robert E. Gentzel's lecture to veniremen called for service in the trial of Angelo Pettiti, Andrew Capellano and his 16 year old son, Tony, charged with the kidnapping for ransom of Billy Ranieri, 10 years old, showed results yesterday. When court adjourned last night the first panel of four jurors had been sworn in and it was announced that the other men must be qualified by tomorrow if it takes all tonight to finish the job.

The judge, who had spent seven court days listening to some 200 citizens saying they could not be fair because of fixed opinions or acrimony against the death penalty, not only lectured the veniremen but himself questioned them as to their qualifications. This procedure has been tried only once before, by Judge Philip Sullivan.

The first panel is composed of Martin A. Guio, 2241 South 59th court, Cicero; John J. Klesano, 3640 North Albany avenue; Edward J. Grant, 524 North Armour street, and Walter Adolph, 7608 Eberhart avenue.

Another special venire is summoned for tomorrow morning and from the group the judge expects to complete the jury and start the hearing of evidence by Monday morning.

GETS YEAR ON STABBING CHARGE.
John Gannon, 40 years old, 871 Bush street, charged with stabbing his wife with an ice pick while he was intoxicated, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Joseph L. McCarthy.

DELEGATES FROM ABROAD VISIT AIRPLANE SHOW

Sixty foreign delegates to the International Civil Aeronautics conference, opening in Washington, D. C., on Dec. 12, arrived at the municipal airport yesterday afternoon in eleven trimotored planes from Cleveland. Last evening they visited the International Aeronautical exposition at the Coliseum, as guests of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

Among the delegates are Brig. Gen. Lord Thompson of England, Prince Mozaffar Firooz, head of the Persian delegation to the conference, and Gen. Heutel Deutelmose of Austria. Representatives from Canada, Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Japan, Holland, Panama, Poland, and Siam were in the party. Prince Firooz and his party were the dinner guests last night of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick at her home. They will be entertained today by Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Paul E. Malone and Mrs. Win. (Bertham) Buchanan.

The Chicago Association of Commerce and the Aero Club of Illinois are arranging entertainment for the foreign delegation as a whole.

Charles L. Lawrence, chairman of the show committee of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that the organization has endorsed the Detroit-American Aeronautical exposition to be held in that city from April 4 to 14.

It was announced last night that the Sikorski amphibian air yacht on exhibition at the Coliseum has been sold to John Hertz for $57,000. Another deal reported was that of the purchase of 450 Robbin planes by C. S. Jones, president of the Curtiss Flying Service, from the Robertson Aircraft corporation.

The planes will be used at twenty-five flying fields similar to the Curtiss field at Long Island, N. Y., to be established throughout the country. One of the fields is to be opened here, and others include new fields at St. Louis, Detroit, Indianapolis, and Miami and Palm Beach, Fla.

The planes are of the monoplane cabin type, carrying two passengers and a pilot. They are powered with Challenger and OX5 Curtiss motors.

POLITICS HINDERS CHICAGO'S SMOKE WAR, CITY TOLD

New York Group Reports on Survey of Cities.

Political influence has put an end to effective smoke abatement work in Chicago under the present city administration, in the opinion of the New York city bureau of research, which recently completed an impartial survey of anti-smoke activities in the five largest cities of America.

Copies of the bureau's report of its study, made to the New York board of aldermen on Oct. 2, 1928, was transmitted yesterday by City Librarian Frederick Rex to Ald. Leonard J. Grossman (8th) and Ald. Thomas J. Byrne (15th). Ald. Byrne is chairman of a council subcommittee considering an ordinance, sponsored by Grossman, which will create in Chicago a separate smoke abatement department, removing it from the boiler inspection department.

New York Tackles Problem. New York, like Chicago, is considering a plan to cope with its soot and cinder problem by disassociating the task from other city activities. It was with a view of gathering information on this plan that the New York research bureau made its survey. The research covered Cleveland, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, and Cincinnati. "Reports indicate that political influence and the indifference of the head of the boiler inspection department (George E. Nye) have greatly reduced the efficiency of smoke abatement work in Chicago since it was transferred from the department of health on July 1, 1927," the New York investigators stated.

The report summarized its estimate of results being obtained in the various cities as follows:

Cleveland Good
St. Louis Big improvement
Pittsburgh Good
Chicago Fails to interfere Cincinnati Good

Chicago Lags Behind.

Cleveland, the New York research men reported, is obtaining "noticeable results" in decreasing the smoke nuisance. St. Louis has reduced railroad smoke by 46 per cent, Pittsburgh's progress is "encouraging," and Cincinnati is making "excellent progress." The report made no complimentary remarks about Chicago. Political conditions here have placed Chicago among the least progressive of the five cities in smoke abatement work, it said.

The research bureau, in recommendations based on its survey, urges the New York officials to adopt "the best practice of other cities (except Chicago) in respect to placing the task of smoke abatement in the hands of a force engaged solely in that work and empowered to control the installation of fuel burning apparatus."

Ald. Byrne Agrees. Ald. Byrne declared that the findings of the New York investigators are in exact accord with those of his subcommittee. "Nobody knows better than we do that smoke abatement work in Chicago has fallen down and it's no wonder the New Yorkers don't compliment us," said Ald. Byrne. "But if our new ordinance is adopted, I believe Chicago in the future will lead the country in a real anti-smoke crusade."

Ald. Grossman's ordinance is being revised by Corporation Counsel Kettelson and will be brought before the subcommittee for final action at 2 p. m. today. Ald. Byrne said he expected to have the ordinance in the hands of the finance committee within a week.

CRUISER LIMIT PARLEY BEFORE 1931 UNLIKELY

And Not Helped by British Critics, Is Capital View.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Little prospect for the formation of a treaty limiting cruiser tonnage prior to the scheduled Washington treaty conference in 1931 was held today by Secretary of State Kellogg.

While stating in response to questions that he would not be surprised if Great Britain found an opportunity within the next year to reopen negotiations on the cruiser problem, Mr. Kellogg said he did not think it would be probable to call another official limitation conference before the 1931 parley. Mr. Kellogg indicated, however, that the door is open for friendly discussion of the cruiser problem and that this conference would be willing to give sympathetic consideration to any limitation proposition England might make.

Criticism Not Helpful.
Secretary Kellogg expressed optimism that some kind of an understanding on cruiser limitation eventually would be reached by the United States and Great Britain. In expressing this view, however, Mr. Kellogg made it clear that he does not consider the British unofficial criticism of American naval building plans is adding the two countries to reach an understanding.

While Washington officials refused to comment on the speech delivered before the league of nations yesterday by Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, it was plainly apparent that his criticism of the United States as "imperialistic" was much resented.

Gen. Robertson, in referring to the projected approval by congress of the pending fifteen cruiser bill, charged that the United States was increasing its navy.

"America is influenced by imperialistic tendencies and apparently means, no matter what happens, to go on increasing her navy," he stated, according to London press dispatches.

Statements Misleading.
Administration officials especially resented Gen. Robertson's contention that the United States is planning naval increases. It was asserted in the highest administration circles that the United States has no intention of increasing its navy.

It was pointed out that the United States now has but ten modern cruisers—that the cruiser strength of the American navy will still be far below that of Great Britain even if the fifteen ships provided in the pending cruiser bill are authorized and constructed.

ARMY ASKS 10 ARMORED TANKS FOR WAR DUTY

Coolidge O. K.'s $250,000 for Equipment.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—For the first time since the armistice, the war department budget carries funds for the construction of new modern armored tanks for regular issue to the American army. Figures made public by President Coolidge disclose that $250,000 has been recommended for armored tank construction during the 1930 fiscal year. Ordnance officials estimate this sum would provide for the manufacture of eight or ten, seven ton tanks equipped with armor plate for war duty.

Eight experimental light and medium weight tanks have been built for the ordnance department since the world war, but none of these fighting machines has been protected with armor plate and none has been issued to troops as a part of their regular equipment. The new tanks will be assigned to the infantry or to a motorized striking force if such a combat unit is developed by the war department.

Replace Obsolete Equipment.
Funds have also been provided for the purchase of 114 modern trucks and two armored cars. The new trucks, virtually the first provided in any budget since the war, will be used to replace obsolete equipment. Some of the trucks will be utilized for further experimentation with motorized forces. Lack of modern powerful trucks greatly handicapped the experiments conducted with machine weapons at Fort Leonard Wood last summer.

Although pleased that a beginning toward army modernization appears in prospect, tank enthusiasts expressed disappointment that funds were not provided for the manufacture of twenty-five tanks in 1930. The special board appointed by Secretary of War Davis last summer to investigate the advisability of increasing the army's motorized and machine forces recommended the establishment of a special motorized force. The board recommended that the 100 tanks needed to arm such a force should be built over a period of three or four years. This would mean the acquisition of approximately twenty-five tanks annually.

The tank fund provided in the 1930 budget provides $20,000 for beginning construction on a new experimental fifteen ton medium tank.

War department analysis of its 1930 budget reveals that it will provide about $10,000,000 more for the purely military activities of the department than the 1929 budget. The addition goes largely for army housing and the air corps.

GETS DRUNK, THEN TELLS OF SLAYING 7 YEAR OLD BOY

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—A Polish miner, drunk and talkative in a Detroit speakeasy, yesterday afternoon mumbled something about having killed a boy on the Jersey meadows two or three weeks ago and leaving his body to sink into the marsh.

His companions listened to his drunken boasting and notified the police. An hour later the miner, Peter Kudznowski, was seated in a Detroit police station telling the same terrible story.

Searching at dawn today along the frozen fringe of swamp between Seacaus and Jersey City, the police uncovered the body. It was seven year old Joseph Storelli, missing from his home in New York since Saturday, Nov. 17. His throat had been cut by a small sharp knife, and the body gave evidence of a brutal criminal attack.

BOY'S CHAMPION STEER SOLD FOR $7,994; A RECORD

Brings $7 a Pound to Lift Profits to $8,816.38.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Dick, the 1928 grand champion steer, was sold under the auctioneer's hammer for $7 a pound on the hoof, bringing a total of $7,994, at the twenty-ninth International Live Stock exposition yesterday.
The grand champion, owned by Clarence Goecke, a 12 year old club boy of State Center, Ia., brought nearly double the highest price ever paid for a grand champion at previous shows. He was bought by James E. Dodge, manager of J. C. Penney & Co.'s farm in the east. Dick was a grand champion only by chance. He was about to be sold after the grand championship ribbon was tied on his halter at the Marshall county fair, Marshalltown, Ia., last summer, and if he had been sold on the central market at the top price paid yesterday at Chicago he would have brought only $113.72.

Nate Boy $8,816.38 Profit.
The premier animal weighs 1,143 pounds and it cost $125.82 to raise and fatten him. Before coming to Chicago he won cash prizes at Iowa fairs totaling $145. At the International this week he has won a total of $800 in prizes, bringing a gross total, including the sale price, of $8,942. His owner has left a net profit of $8,816.38.

Rupert B, the 1926 grand champion steer, brought $3.60 a pound, the record price until yesterday.
Preston Wolfe, the junior champion Belgian stallion in the horse division, owned by the Michigan State college, East Lansing, won the King Albert cup given by a horse society of Belgium. The trophy was presented by Dr. C. Vermeiren, Belgian consul in Chicago. The award was offered to the best Belgian stallion or mare of the show, excluding previous winners.
J. E. Falconer of Govan, Sask., exhibiting Lochivar, was awarded the grand championship Clydesdale stallion honor. A. G. Soderberg of Oaco, Ill., won the reserve championship with Green Meadow Reliance.
The Crown Prince trophy was presented by Dr. Vermeiren to the Holbert Horse Importing company for exhibiting the champion group of five Belgian horses.

The two big grand championship awards of the steer show, the grand champion steer and the grand champion beef carcass, were won by two Marshall county [Iowa] farm boys—Clarence Goecke and Keith Collins.
Today at 2 p. m. on the exposition grounds these club boys will make their final appearance in the international ring when they sell the champion calves to their grand champions in the special junior feeding contest auction.
More than 1,200 boys and girls, delegates to the 4 H club congress, attended a banquet at the Palmer house last night as guests of twelve railroads.

Cornstalks Make Newspaper.
A new idea for farm relief was presented here yesterday when it was announced that cornstalks could be made into newspaper. The first newspaper ever printed on the new cornstalk paper will be published by the Commercial-News of Danville, Ill., on Dec. 16, according to Earl Harding, who spoke to delegates attending the American Railway Development association's meeting at the Congress hotel.

HORSE SHOW RESULTS

2 OF 5 ON YACHT THAT BURNED AT SEA ARE SAVED

Coca Beach, Fla., Dec. 6.—Two of the five men aboard the yacht Ocora which burned following an explosion last night when nine miles off Melbourne, Fla., had been rescued tonight.

Edward Sattinover, a member of the crew, was picked up today by a fishing smack, and early tonight another seaman, Leslie Royal, of Jacksonville, pulled himself ashore at Melbourne, exhausted after 24 hours in the water.

The men were en route from Jacksonville to Miami, according to Royal's story, in a 50 foot cabin cruiser. Early last night the engine backfired, casting a spark into some oil covered bilge water. The flames spread rapidly to the fuel tanks. A series of explosions followed.

"Together with another man," Royal said, "I set out to swim to shore. About 2 o'clock my partner cried out he had cramps. I shut my eyes and never saw him again."

ROB THREE STORES IN SUCCESSION.
Two young robbers in quick succession held up the managers and patrons of three chain grocery stores on the south side last night. The places entered and the loot in each were as follows: Consumers store, 8607 Stony Island avenue, $74; Consumers store, 336 West 111th street, $50 cash and jewelry; and A. & P. tea store, 7707 South Peoria street, $100.

She wondered what

by JANE LEE MORRISON

"Next to a string of real pearls," I told him, "I know your wife would like something rational for Christmas. And since you've asked my opinion, I recommend one of those lovely Sunbeam Flat Toasters such as Edith Brown used for serving Toasted Sandwiches at her bridge party."

"The filling can't fall out of the toasting Sandwiches because they lie perfectly flat directly over the heat. Plain toast and toasted crackers are made the same way—and toasting is twice as quick because the bread gets the direct heat as it rises."

"Really, Edith's Sunbeam makes the most delicious golden toast I've ever tasted, not to mention the number of people it serves by toasting so fast."

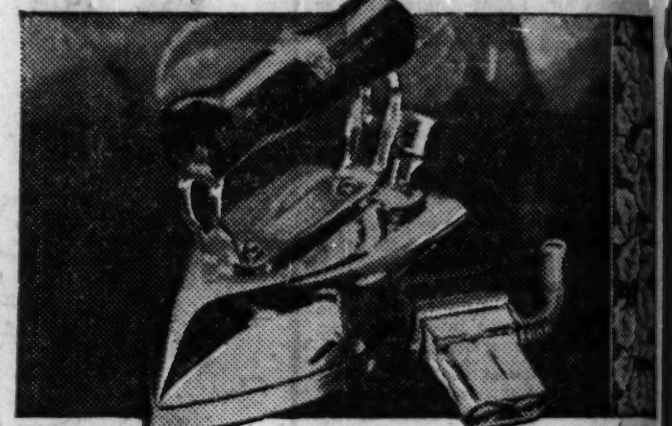

Sunbeam Flat Toaster with Turn-Over Rack and Non-Breakable Trouble-Proof Plug, $8.

My own list of Gifts for my friends also includes the famous Sunbeam Iron in its Art-Steel, Fire-Proof Case.

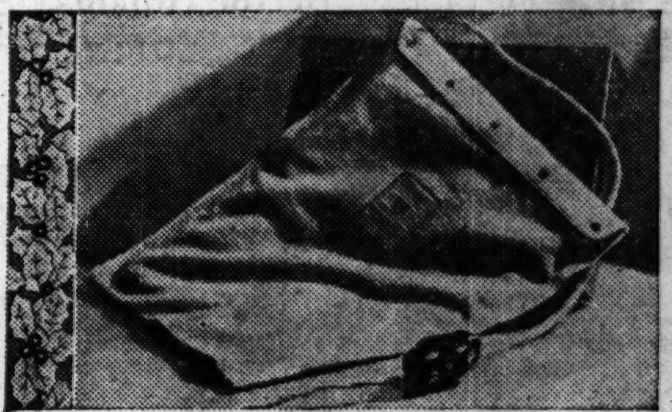

My dealer calls it the 30-Year Sunbeam because it was shown in engineering tests that the Sunbeam would not burn out in more than 30 years' home use. It saves an hour or more each ironing day.

This is just such a gift as a woman would pick for herself or her best friend.

It has an Air-Cooled Handle that makes ironing wonderfully comfortable, and a Trouble-Proof Plug made of metal so it can't be broken.

Sunbeam 30-Year Iron with Air-Cooled Handle and Non-Breakable Trouble-Proof Plug, $7.50; In Art-Steel, Fire-Proof Case, $1 more.

Sunbeam WET-Proof Electric Pad, with High, Medium and Low Heat Controls, $9.50.

Then there's the Sunbeam WET-Proof Heating Pad which our doctor told us is the only electric pad possible to use on wet packs to keep them hot.

There is one right now on my little boy's infected foot, and now I am getting my sleep at night instead of having to hop out of bed every hour to wig out a fresh pack in scalding water.

Ask your dealer or Public Service Company to show you these fine Sunbeam Electric Gifts. Send direct to the makers of Sunbeam, if necessary, to obtain what you want.

WIFE HE STOLE TAKES STAND AGAINST REED

Tells Threat Day Before Husband Was Slain.

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.
Rockford, Ill., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—
She turned them away from Judge Ivy Plager, a pretty blonde widow, on the witness stand telling of her life with Vernon Plager, her husband, whose murder the state is seeking to avenge, and of the love she once had for Paul Reed, who is on trial for that murder.

"And when she swung her tailored blue coat about her, adjusted her brilliant blue hat, and climbed down from the stand at the close of court, she had repaid the crowd of curious men and women who ate their lunch from paper sacks and remained in the court for the two hour noon recess to be down front when "the woman in the case" entered.
Slowly, and with many an "I don't remember" and "I cannot say" she had taken them back to her girlhood on the Pearl City, Ill., farm, to her marriage to Plager, to that fourth of July night when she first met Reed at a dance out at Central park.
Tells of Elopement.
She dwelt in detail upon her elopement from her husband's home with the quiet, slender defendant, her return and his many clandestine visits before Vernon was blown to death by an infernal machine.
The state claims that Reed planted the dynamite that exploded when Plager stepped on the starter of his car last July 19. Ivy is 23, and so is Paul. Plager was 23.

Paul shook with anger, she told the jury, when, on the morning preceding the day of the murder, he had come to her and implored her to go away with him again on his vacation.
"You're a hell of a girl," she quoted him as saying. And a moment later, as he ran down the stairs:
"You're gonna wait too long, some time; something's going to happen."
Plager's Last Night Alive.
That night, she went on, she drove with her husband and Lois, who is 3 years old, out into the country to pick cherries, leaving at 6 o'clock and returning at about 11. The little delivery truck that was blown to bits the next morning was left in the driveway of their home when they drove away in another car.
State's Attorney William D. Knight will endeavor to prove that in that time Reed could have driven from Mount Morris, where he spent the night prior to the explosion, come to the Plager home, and returned within the 3 hours and 15 minutes that Mrs.

Lois Garrison, his aunt, testified that he was gone from her home.
Vernon arose from the breakfast table on the morning of July 19, kissed his wife and daughter goodbye and left for work at his radio shop, Mrs.
Plager testified.
"Lois and I were on the way to the window to wave goodbye when we heard that terrible explosion," she went on in a quivering voice, then she broke down. She raised a pink handkerchief to her eyes and buried her head in the fur collar of her coat.
Slowly, but unabashed, she told of a trip to Peoria, Davenport, and Moline, where they lived in hotels as man and wife. It lasted two weeks and at the end of that time remorse came.
They returned and went to the home of her sister, Mrs. Floyd Plager, she said. It was there, she went on, that police came and found her with Paul.
"We were in bed," she said.

PRAISE RADIUM'S PART IN BATTLE AGAINST DISEASE

Doctors Tell of Progress in New Science.

Conquest of beginning cancers, stubborn, benign tumors, particularly those common in women, skin and other diseases, by the X-ray, radium, and other properties of light, commonly known as radiotherapy, has far surpassed in the last few years the advancement in any other branch of medicine and surgery, Dr. Edwin C. Ernst of St. Louis, retiring president of the Radiological Society of North America, said last night.

Dr. Ernst spoke at the dinner given in connection with the fourteenth annual meeting of the society at the Drake hotel. Other speakers included Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association; Dr. M. J. Hubeny of Chicago, president elect of the society, and Drs. E. H. Skinner and H. M. Imbbsen, president and president elect of the American Roentgen Ray society.

Present Medals and Awards.

One of the features of the dinner was the presentation of medals and awards for notable work in radiology during the last year. A gold medal was presented to Prof. Arthur Compton of the physics department at the University of Chicago for his research in the field of light. Prof. W. T. Bowie of Northwestern university was presented with the John Scott medal and a premium of $1,000 given by the city of Philadelphia. Dr. Bowie, head of the department of bi-physics at Northwestern, a pioneer in the field of electro-surgery, was cited as a scientist who has contributed much to modern medicine.

Dr. Ernst told of the importance of the International Congress of Radiology held in Stockholm, Sweden, last summer. He said the Radiological society of North America had made important contributions to the international agreements adopted.

Praises Healing Work.

"But all other conquests are far surpassed," Dr. Ernst said, "by the fact that for the first time in the history of medicine it has been possible to produce a healing process in malignant lesions (cancer, etc.): a healing process which in several forms of tumors may bring about a complete regression of the disease without mechanical or surgical removal of the tumor.

The meeting comes to an end with sessions to be held today.

VESTRIS BLAME OFFICIALLY LAID ON DEAD SKIPPER

Incompetence Cost 111
Lives, Says Report.

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The report for the Vestris disaster with the loss of 111 lives today was placed squarely on the shoulders of her commander, Capt. William J. Carey, who went down with his ship.

The British and American naval experts, in their reports in the inquiry into the catastrophe, accused Carey of bad seamanship and lack of leadership. The report found "incomprehensible incompetence" on his part.

Capt. E. P. Jessup, the American, said that phrase, and added: "Not even the most elementary things were done. There was no sign of any organization. There was no general order to abandon the ship. In view of that it is entirely possible that the ship and its passengers might have been saved."

Leaky Hatch Sank Ship.
Capt. Jessup also disclosed that the underlying cause of the Vestris' sinking was a filthy cover on a hatch on board, then was carried bodily away by the sea. Water then poured through the hatch into the starboard alley, thence into the coal bunkers, where it became mixed with the coal and started the ship's fatal list.

A canoe could have been launched on the lee side of the vessel, Capt. Jessup said, when Capt. Carey could not get the windward boats into the water. Besides, the S O S call was sent out too late and the passengers and crew were given no orders to board the boats. Not enough pumps were put to work to lower the water that had leaked in the hull.

And in addition to his other mistakes, the experts said, Capt. Carey lowered the stability of his badly listed vessel when he ordered the ballast pumped out into the sea.

James A. Adams, chief engineer of the Vestris, came in for almost equal share of blame. He reported to the captain that the pumps were holding their own with leaks, said Capt. Jessup, when actually they pumped only thirty per cent of the capacity for which they were designed.

Capt. Henry McConkey, the British expert, agreed that the S O S came too late, that the ballast should have been left in the tanks and that the starboard, not the port life boats, should have been put first into the water.

Jessup Is Unsparring.
But Capt. Jessup's report was the more stringent of the two.
"It would seem," he said, "that Capt. Carey was under the impression that the steamship would still float for a considerable time, in view of the chief engineer's report that he could hold the water in check.

"Perhaps the captain did not realize that having pumped out Nos. 2, 4, and 5 double bottom tanks, instead of righting the vessel, it was having the opposite effect by lessening the stability of his ship, and the increasing weight of water on the main deck was causing the vessel gradually to capsize."
"It is incomprehensible that so much incompetence could be loaded into one boat. The crew was fairly good, but they were not led. The passengers were very tractable, but no one told them what to do."

Capt. Jessup also declared that the metacentric height of the Vestris had the very lowest limit for safety; in other words, that the normal stability of the ship was extremely low.

FREE EIGHTEEN SEIZED IN RAID.
Charles Maxwell, 2325 West Superior street, charged with being the keeper of a gambling house, and seventeen men booked as inmates were detained yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden. The men were arrested in room 808 of the Adams Express company building. Their attorneys asked that the evidence be suppressed because the police had not witnessed any gambling.

Bottled Sunshine!
—the health-builder for growing years
—physicians advise it

Medical authorities are now advising a simple but very effective way to help growing children keep up to par in weight, vitality and endurance.

They find that Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—given daily, builds up depleted vitality and increases general resistance to infections. It helps the underweight child to put on flesh and grow as he should.

The factors that make cod-liver oil such a valued health-builder are Vitamins A and D. Vitamin A promotes normal growth and nutrition, and increases resistance to infections. Vitamin D is the

"sunshine vitamin" which growing children particularly need, since modern ways of living give them so little sunshine.

In prescribing cod-liver oil, thousands of physicians specify Squibb's. They advise it because it is tested and guaranteed to be very rich in the vitamins that protect, Vitamins A and D.

Ask your physician about Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil as a health-builder for your child. You can now get Squibb's Mint-Flavored Cod-Liver Oil which appeals to older children especially. All good drug stores have it, as well as Squibb's Plain Cod-Liver Oil.

UNION OFFICIALS PLEAD GUILTY TO U. S. CHARGES

Four men, indicted by the government as alleged racketeers in the glass industry, yesterday pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust laws before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson and were sentenced on Jan. 8. A fifth, Benjamin Beris, president of the American Glass company, pleaded not guilty to the charges, which involve an alleged restraint in trade in the manufacture and transportation of glass cabinets.

The four who pleaded guilty are officers of local 27 of the Glaziers' union. They are George H. Meyers, business agent; Charles Pfeiffer, president; Timothy Rice, business agent, and Frank Harris, trustee and office secretary.

The indictment charged the defendants with levying a tax on manufacturers of glass cabinets in other states who shipped their wares into Chicago. These manufacturers were compelled to pay $500 a year, or twenty-five cents a cabinet, before it could be placed in a Chicago building, the indictment charged.

Smoot Ready to Fire on Bill Today.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Possibility of an adjustment of differences between Arizona and California appeared remote as various phases of their controversy were aired in the senate today in the debate on Boulder dam legislation.

Senator Carl Hayden (Dem., Ariz.), who continued his speech in opposition to the pending bill, urged support of an amendment offered by him requiring ratification of the Colorado river compact by all seven of the Colorado basin states before construction of Boulder dam is commenced, and also limiting the amount of water which can be used by California to 4,360,000 acre feet annually.

It was apparent from remarks by Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] that California will continue to insist on a minimum of 4,600,000 acre feet out of the 7,500,000 acre feet allocated under the Colorado river compact to the three lower basin states of California, Nevada, and Arizona.

It also was apparent from Senator Johnson's attitude that there is little chance of an agreement between the two states on the question of power production.

Senator Hayden said it was essential that there should be approval of the

BETHLEHEM CO. SUES U. S. STEEL IN FIGHT OVER PATENT RIGHTS

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special].—The Bethlehem Steel corporation and the American Universal Mill company of Scranton, Pa., filed suit in the federal court at Newark today against the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiaries, the Carnegie Steel company and the American Bridge company, alleging infringement of five patents with a value in excess of 250 millions.

The complainants seek a permanent injunction against the defendant companies, an accounting of the profits accruing from the patent infringement, and damages.

The five patents cover the manufacture of steel beams and girders used in building construction.

On Oct. 3, 1929, the United States Supreme Court announced it had sustained construction of a plant to manufacture the Gray beam. It was reported that the Bethlehem company's patent rights on the beam were about to expire.

The president, Eugene G. Grace, declared that his company would resist any effort by the United States Steel corporation to manufacture the Gray beam.

He said that later the Bethlehem company was about to expire were "entirely unwarranted."

compact by all seven states instead by only six states as provided by the pending legislation.

It is expected that two other opponents of the Boulder dam bill will take the floor tomorrow. Both Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] and Senator Henry F. Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.] are planning to make speeches assailing the legislation and pointing out weaknesses in the project as disclosed by the report of the Sibert engineering board.

SOPHOMORES MAY MAKE IOWA FIVE BIG 10 CONTENDER

Regulars Fight to Hold Places on Team.

This is the seventh of a series of articles discussing basketball prospects at Big Ten universities.

You can "dope" Iowa's basketball team any way you like this season and "like as not" you'll be wrong. Superficially, it appears the Hawkeyes won't be any too strong, as they lost nine of their 12 conference games last year and have the same team back this year. But Iowa presents the rather unusual state of affairs in that three of last year's team were sophomores and this year two and possibly three or more of last year's team may be forced to the bench to make way for more sophomores.

Iowa's situation is much like Northwestern's last year, when a pair of sophomores bolstered the weak spots in a veteran squad to pull the Purple from somewhere near the bottom into a fight for the championship. Furthermore, Iowa's sophomores are no usual graduates of the freshman squad, because three of them starred for other colleges before putting on the Old Gold.

Two Missouri Valley Stars.
Joe Wagner, 6 foot 3 inch center, weighing 205 pounds, was a star at Ames two years ago and was chosen for the second all-Missouri Valley team. Herbert Jensen, only two inches shorter but 50 pounds lighter, also was on the second all-Missouri Valley quintet as guard two years ago when he played for Drake. Fred Geneva was a star guard of the Iowa conference when he played with Parsons college in 1927.

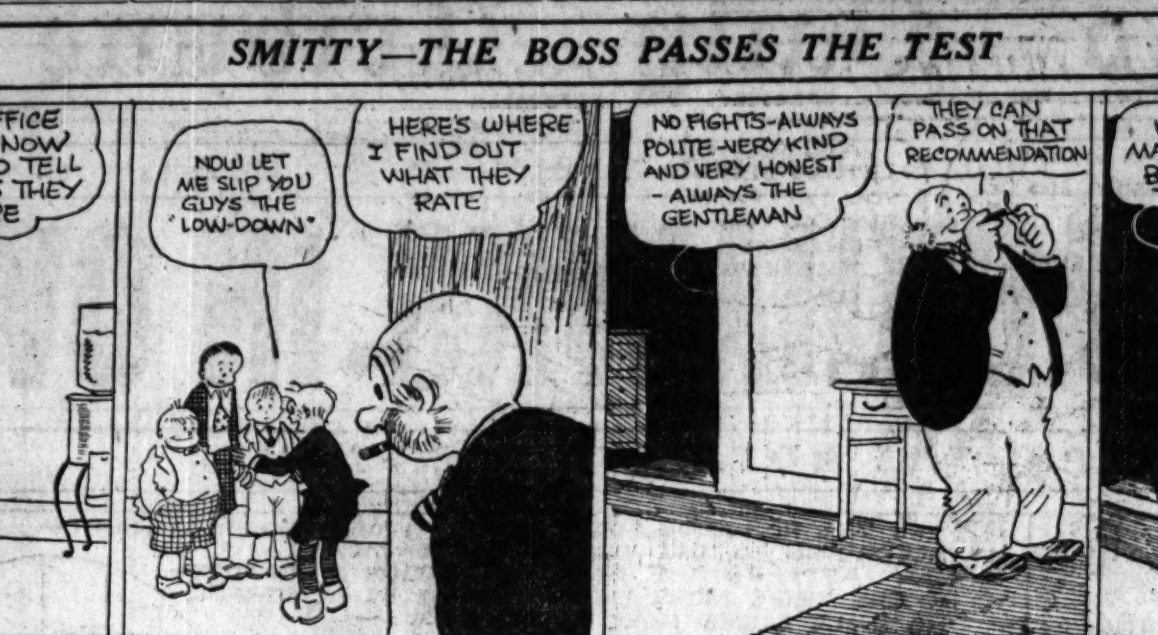

These are only a few of the good sophomores and there are veterans as well. All of last year's regulars—Capt. Francis L. Wilcox, center; Forrest F. Twogood, and Royal A. Plunkitt, forwards; Robert M. Kinnam and Virgil David, guards—are working to hold their jobs. They ranked fifth offensively in the Big Ten last year, but were at the bottom in defense. Opponents averaged a fraction under 27 points each.

Know Your Wilcoxes.
Capt. Francis L. Wilcox (not to be confused with Francis O. Wilcox, football tackle, or Francis M. Wilcox, broad jumper) is as likely to hold his position at center as any of the veterans. "Rags" is 6 feet 2 and weighs 180, and has led the Old Gold team in scoring for two years, with 55 points in 1927 and 87 last year. Wagner and Seward Leake are other center candidates.

Twogood, Wilcox's buddy, who captained the team last year, is the same height as Wilcox and weighs five pounds more. He's a left-handed dribbler, as well as the southpaw strike out king of conference baseball. Incidentally, he's married. His running mate, Plunkitt, is an Indian and one of the few on the squad under six feet. He's 5 feet 11 and though handicapped by a bad knee most of last season, scored 72 points.

Two Guards Are Juniors.
Four other sophomores have ambitions on those forward posts and their ambitions are backed with ability. Robert Spradling, brother of Purdue's famed George Spradling, is a polished basketball shot who was a running mate of Plunkitt at forward on the Frankfurt, Ind., high school team. Irving (Pointe-Minute) Nelson, the deep kicking specialist of the football team, seems to have as much of an eye for the basket as he has for the crossbar on a gridiron.

Both of last year's guards are juniors. Kinnam, a rangy 6 footer weighing 165, was a back court man. His teammate, David, is another left-handed basketball pitcher, as tall as Kinnam but weighing nearly 200 pounds. Both of them have a fight on their hands to hold their jobs this year against the competition.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—Running in new colors and showing a startling form reversal, Lincoln Plaut, the 3 year old colt which was decisively defeated by Crow's Nest last week, turned the tables at Jefferson Park today and won over the old rival by a length and a half. The short end of the purse was taken by Jim Bean.

Lincoln Plaut is now owned by B. Haughton, he having been claimed in his last race, when he ran in the colors of William Mahler. On that occasion Crow's Nest took the track soon after the snap of the barrier and was never headed. Lincoln Plaut doing his best to be third. This afternoon it was a different story with the form players the sufferers as they made Crow's Nest the favorite on the strength of his recent victory.

When the five that made up the field got away, Prince Bozo was first with Crow's Nest second. Refereendum third, Jim Bean, fourth and the eventual winner last. Prince Bozo held the lead for the first couple of furlongs but Crow's Nest was close behind and it looked as if Crow's Nest would just breeze in when the Prince was ready to stop.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Streator, Ill., Dec. 6.—There has been quite a little rioting here today, due to the fact that it was the date for the annual distribution of season tickets for the 1928-1929 basketball season of Streator High.

In this city, widely known as the most rabid of all the rabid basketball centers of the state, they sell out everything before the first game is played. There is no provision for transient drummers in town with an evening on their hands. If you are not a season ticket holder it is just too bad.

The only thing available for the one game aspirant is parking space on North Bloomington street. You can't see the game from there, but you can hear the shouting, and that is deemed enough for any one who isn't willing to go for a season ticket.

Here's a Nice Job.

We've heard a lot of those nicely tailored Chicago theater box office men meaning about the game who hear down on them for third row center on the aisle. After hanging around Crabbe's drug store here this afternoon we are prepared to advise the Chicago box office boys that they "ain't heard nothing yet" in the way of squawks.

Harry H. Smith is the suffering soul in charge of the aforementioned advance sale. All night Harry had to do from morning till night was explain to late citizens that the last row in the corner of the balcony was far better than the center of the third row stand. No one was convinced, of course, but Harry had to say something.

Don't gather from the foregoing that Mr. Smith is at all irritable. He was willing to go to the other end of the hall to explain to the late citizens that the last row in the corner of the balcony was far better than the center of the third row stand. No one was convinced, of course, but Harry had to say something.

When we finally got a chance to talk to him he showed us a batch of tickets he was holding out in his vest pocket.

The Missus Has a Say.

"See these?" Inquired Mr. Smith. "One of our leading business men came in this morning, looked these over, and said he'd see me in hell before he'd be shut out in such a shameless fashion."

"Well, I knew something would happen. I just put tickets in my pocket, still in his name. And, just as I had guessed, he went home, got hauled out by his wife and called me up instructions to hold his original allotment at all costs."

Streator High has one of the finest gymnasiums in all Illinois, the last built in modern equipment. The structure was opened in 1924 and despite its spaciousness it ever has been inadequate, as evidenced by the fact that since its opening there never has been a basketball game at which it was not necessary to sell standing room. This includes all of some 85 scheduled contests and five tournaments.

According to W. D. Waldrup, principal of the high school, Streator, through its basketball receipts, is enabled to finance the most extensive athletic program of any prep school in Illinois. Basketball, football, baseball, swimming, tennis, track, and golf all have regular schedules at Streator. And all are carried by basketball gold.

Dale Is Coach of Team.

In direct charge of all this is Pops Dale, one of the highest salaried prep coaches in the country. And Dale got into athletics through his basketball skill.

Dale has been here since 1918 and has won 78 per cent of his games since that time. It is his philosophy that he'd rather be sunk by a classy team than push over a dozen mediocre outfits. As a consequence Streator's always a lot of class on a Streator schedule.

This year's schedule, for instance, includes games with Canton, last year's state champion; De La Salle of Joliet, last year's state Catholic champion; Peoria Manual, Peoria Central, Moline, and Galesburg.

Captain Dale says he'll have one of his best teams in the opener against Morris next Wednesday night. His gang will be led by Bill Connell, all-star guard last season. Other veterans are George Patton and Elbert Griggs. Hope also got a break when the parents of Don Smith, captain of Rock Island high moved here, Smith is counted on to star for Streator.

Crane Heavies Defeat
Schurz; Lights Lose

Crane and Schurz High school basketball teams divided a pair of thrilling games yesterday on the Crane floor. The visiting lights gained a 16 to 14 decision, the margin of victory coming on Feldt's third basket. He scored scoring honors with Doell, who also dropped in three field goals. In the heavyweight game, two free throws by Riess enabled Crane to win, 12 to 11.

ROOSEVELT WINS PAIR.

Roosevelt handed Harrison a double setback at Roosevelt, winning the lightweight game, 13 to 9, and the heavyweight contest, 22 to 12. Muller, with three baskets, starred for the home lights and Capt. Harris and Harmsley led the way for the Heavyweight triumph.

MARSHALL WHIPS LINDBLOM.

Marshall invaded Lindblom's gym and copped a double header. The home team finished on top, 14 to 11, and the visitors had a 15 to 14 triumph.

Hoppe Beats Lookabaugh

Willie Hoppe yesterday opened practice for the championship three cushion billiard tournament by defeating Earl Lookabaugh, 50 to 34, at Bensinger's Congress-Wabash rooms. Hoppe turned in two runs of nine in his 41 innings. The two will play a second block this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Western Golf Amateur Goes to Kansas City

BY HARLAN ROHM.

The Marland Hills club of Kansas City, Mo., was awarded the western amateur golf championship to be played the week of July 8 to 13 and the western junior championship was given the La Grange Country club, with tentative dates of Aug. 6 to 9, at the annual meeting of the Western Golf association at the Mid-Day club last night.

The western open tournament was left to the decision of the board of governors, but it is almost certain that Chicago [surfeited on tournament golf from last year] will not see this event in 1929. Milwaukee probably has an edge in bidding for this tournament, but St. Louis, Mo., and Minneapolis, Minn., may put in requests.

The awarding of tournaments and the election of officers was decided by a unanimous vote. The officers and directors put on the slate by the nominating committee were exactly those who have held office for last year.

Amateur Meet Nets $1,000.

With that serious business out of the way—the roll call and reading of the minutes having previously been "dispensed with"—the hundred and more representatives of member golf clubs listened with a casual ear to the treasurer's report.

It showed nearly $1,000 gate receipts from the western open and about $800 from the western open and approximately $600 more in expenses than in receipts, which didn't make a large hole in the $12,000 surplus which has been building many years.

There was keen interest in the report read by Henry A. Gardner of the Indian Hill club of the west. A fund, now amounting to $6,000 and originally designed for the benefit of caddies, it is profits from a series of phonograph records. As no way of disposing of the fund had been arranged when it was begun many years ago, the trustees decided to establish a trust fund, the annual income to be awarded to some student of Northwestern university chosen by the board of governors of the Western Golf association, or, lacking their choice, by the university.

Comedian Is Unmasked.

That was the sober element of the meeting, and from then on it developed into so boisterous an evening of amusement that an eminent jurist was led to remark he "hadn't seen so much nonsense since he last addressed the Supreme court."

Among the other speakers who continued the levity were Judge C. S. Cutting, father of the president of the Western association, and Raymond J. Daly, president of the Chicago District association. The officers re-elected were:

Robert M. Cutting, president; R. A. Wood and A. S. Kerry, vice presidents; Leslie B. Gordon, secretary; E. C. Hardenbrook, treasurer; Henry A. Gardner, general counsel. Directors reflected were Harlan Peyton, H. C. Mackall, S. L. Yerkes, Charles Hermann and Walter Pfeiffer.

TRIUMPH IN CITY
INDOOR NET MEET

George Jennings, Armour Tech southpaw, and Gordon Braudt, University of Illinois player, yesterday advanced to the third round of the first indoor city championship tennis tournament at the Rialto hotel last night. Jennings gained his bracket over George O'Connell, 7-5, 6-4, while Braudt took the measure of Charles Lejeck, 6-2, 6-2. In the only doubles match of the afternoon Charles and Leo Lejeck defeated Walter Vanwall and Jerry Weber, 6-1, 8-6.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock George Lott, second ranking player in the country, will oppose Leo Boldenweck, captain of the University of Wisconsin tennis team last season. At the same time Leory Weir, state singles champion, will meet Ellis Klingman, 7 minutes.

At 6 o'clock George Lott will meet Leo Boldenweck, captain of the University of Wisconsin tennis team last season. At the same time Leory Weir, state singles champion, will meet Ellis Klingman, 7 minutes.

Upper Illinois River, Dec. 6.—The mallards have gone. A sombre December sky is above the river. The birds, apparently sensing the freezeup that was due, took to the air more than a week ago. They chose a bright moonlight night for their flight to Reelfoot lake and other points south.

Davis, the caretaker down here, has just told us of the spectacular moonlight migration of the mallards. He said that when he visited the pond one night before sunset the mallards were mulling around in the shallow water by the hundreds. The shore was lined with birds feeding on the corn which had been provided for them. But some time during the night the migration council of wise old greenheads gave the order to take to the air and when morning dawned there was but a handful of loafers on the pond. We have a hunch that the duck shooting clubs and private preserves way down the Illinois river are entertaining some of these birds right now. They will stay down there for some time if there is food available.

Here at this pond it is time to dismantle the blinds and put the alive deerys in "storage," where they can rest their grand opera voices for a year, because the interesting migration parade which passed over these ponds and brought with it hundreds of teal, pintails, gadwalls, widgeon and mallards is over.

Greene Named Yale Captain
for Next Fall

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—Waldo Wittenmyer Greene of Huntington, Pa., today was elected captain of the Yale football eleven for next year. All twenty-six who were entitled to vote because they had taken part in the games against Princeton and Harvard were present.

Greene is a member of the junior class of the academic department, has played guard in all the important games for two years, and was the only member of the squad to remain in this position during the entire game against Harvard. Three years ago he captained and played guard on the freshman eleven.

AWARD FOR HICKOK FAMILY.
Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 6.—(AP)—The award of a Yale major football letter to D. Hastings Hickok of this city on Tuesday added a fourth possessor of the "Y" to this family.

"Hickok of Harrisburg" first came into the limelight of Yale gridiron history in 1893, 1894, and 1895 when W. O. Hickok III, starred as a guard on the famous Eli eleven of those years. In doing so he won a place on Walter Camp's All-American eleven in three consecutive seasons and set a mark which none of his relatives has been able to equal.

Ross A. Hickok, a brother, brought another "Y" into the family. He was a member of the class '97 and won his letter as a tackle.

W. O. Hickok IV, son of W. O. III, and a member of the class of 1926, followed in the footsteps of his father and gained his "Y" in the capacity of a guard.

This year D. Hastings, son of Ross A., moved the Hickok name from the center of the line to the extremity and won his letter as an end, playing in all of the Yale games this season.

Griffith Addresses Meeting.
Approval of the desire of the students themselves to reform conditions which are believed to menace the existence of basketball as a Big Ten sport was given by such leaders as John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Big Ten; Athletic Director George Huff of Illinois; Milt Olander, assistant football coach, and Russ Crane, captain elect in football.

That Illinois students themselves have taken such a forward step on the eve of the meeting in Chicago of the members of the faculty conference board and the directors of the Big Ten is expected to be discussed at these gatherings. Director Huff's letter to students this week revealed the fact that the directors of the conference feel the behavior at Big Ten basketball games showed such a bad tendency last season that the welfare and even the existence of the game is menaced.

BAVARIAN PRINCE LEADS FIGHT FOR STATE'S LIBERTY

Demand Berlin Give Up Domination.

By SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, one of the most prominent generals of Germany during the world war, today stepped back into the political limelight. He took over the leadership of the Bavarian groups which are dissatisfied with the Weimar constitution and demand greater federal prerogatives for Bavaria.

"None of Germany's tribes alone can direct the political fate of Germany. They must share this responsibility more equally," the former crown prince said.

Wants More Responsibility.

"Under political leadership of the northern groups of Germany [meaning Prussia] Germany suffered the greatest political catastrophe of its history," is his main argument. "The world war and what followed it shows that political responsibility must be divided in the German groups. We want more responsibility in the federal states of the German union."

Gen. Rupprecht is not speaking as a discontented prince, but he is the mouthpiece of a great number of the 7,000,000 Bavarian inhabitants, who grow restless every time Germany suffers a defeat in its evacuation and reparations battles. The former crown prince is steadily winning the popularity of his former subjects. To give them proof of his sagacity the 59 year old prince is preparing to publish his diary of war letters. They reveal that as early as 1916 he warned his father, the king of Bavaria, as well as the chancellor, to make peace immediately.

Warns of Defeat.

"Germany can consider itself victorious if it gets out of the war without loss of territory in Europe," he said at that time. At America's entry into the war he warned the chancellors of "a catastrophe which must be avoided."

The Bavarian diet this morning passed a resolution which said: "We insist on strict fulfillment of all federal privileges in Bavaria." In the streets of Munich huge posters in the Bavarian colors, white and blue, say the "Bavarian civilians council" invites the masses to attend a protest meeting "against ten years of exploitation of Bavaria by Berlin, and against ten years of oppression of the federal states of Bavaria."

RESERVE BANKS PLAN TO STOP
CREDIT DRAINS

New Rate Policy Will Prevent Inflation.

BY O. A. MATHER.

One of the most important changes in policy since the inception of the American federal reserve system is planned as the result of the vast amount of credit now being devoted to speculation. Such credit reached new heights this week, the federal reserve board's weekly report last night showing brokers' loans now at $1,349,000,000, an increase of $104,690,000 over a week ago.

The prospective policy of the reserve system will be to impose redicount rates which at all times will be as high or even slightly higher than open market money rates. The effect will be to discourage borrowing by either preventing the member banks from reaping any profit from borrowings or even mildly penalizing them.

Awful Market Decline.

The change in policy is scheduled to be put into effect as soon as the present roaring stock market either has calmed down or been deflated.
Then the New York Reserve bank will inaugurate the new policy and the other eleven banks will follow, according to information received by Chicago bankers yesterday.

The only reason the federal reserve authorities are delaying in adjusting discount rates upward is the fear of precipitating a business and financial depression, as well as a debacle in the securities market such as attended the deflation period into 1929 following the war and post-war boom.

The successive advances in rediscount rates during that period caused widespread and bitter criticism.

The treasury sought to float the successive loans at as low interest rates as possible. Americans were urged to buy Liberty bonds even on installment payments. Therefore it was necessary that such buyers have their banks carry their purchases at interest charges not higher than the Liberty bonds themselves paid. In turn, it was necessary to permit the banks to borrow on Liberty bonds from the reserve banks at the same rate.

The American federal reserve system thus ignored the theory of a central banking system, which is that its credit resources shall be used only in emergencies and then with no profit or at a penalty. This lapse was justified by the war emergency, but since then the reserve system was not returned to the accepted theory of practice.

Urged in Past.

During the 1919 period of vast speculation in securities, farm lands and commodities, several noted American bankers urged an upward revision of federal reserve discount rates to check credit inflation. But when the rates were raised in 1920, inflation was at its peak and the ensuing deflation was drastic. The reserve authorities had waited too long in imposing restrictive measures.

Similarly, during 1927 the reserve authorities kept discount rates unusually low in order to help Europe establish its currencies on a gold standard. Our low money rates and Europe's higher rates encouraged the outflow of American capital.

But Chicago bankers in particular warned that the low federal reserve rates would encourage credit inflation and stock market speculation. That is exactly what has happened. Once again, when the reserve authorities sought to check speculation last spring by imposing higher rates the perspective came too late. With these lessons, the federal reserve banks now contemplate a new policy that will prevent inflation and so make later drastic corrective measures unnecessary.

Report on Loans.

Yesterday, for example, the member banks could borrow from the reserve banks at 5 1/2 per cent and lend

Maker of Oil Burners Calls for Engineers

BY LEON STOLZ.

Letters continue to arrive commenting on remarks made in this column about the decline in the popularity of engineering courses in the colleges.
The suggestion that some branches of engineering science have been neglected brought forth the following reply from an official of one of the leading manufacturers of oil burners:

"Your article, 'Oil Combustion Offers Chances for Engineers,' appearing in this Tribune of Dec. 4, is of particular interest to us, and should be to every manufacturer who employs the services of engineers.

"Manufacturers whose business is the production of oil burners or any type of products that call for combustion principles are constantly in the market for the services of combustion engineers. As pointed out in your article, there is a very serious shortage of engineers who understand the principles of combustion and who desire to make this type of engineering their career.

Offers Opportunities.

"There are literally thousands of openings with manufacturers, as well as retail dealers, for combustion engineers. Our corporation employs the year round approximately thirty combustion engineers. This force is limited only by the material available and in addition to our own engineering organization there are thousands of retail oil burner dealers, all of whom require the services of from one to twenty-five combustion engineers.

"The oil burner industry is growing very rapidly, and because of the shortage of competent combustion engineers we are obliged to spend considerable money in educational work that really should be done in technical schools. We feel that because combustion engineering offers such possibilities technical schools should be impressed with the importance of incorporating this branch of study in their engineering school work.

"In fact, we are contemplating at the present time an arrangement whereby the average engineer can go through a course of combustion engineering at our factory school.

Vast Growth of Business.

"The extensiveness of this industry can be appreciated when it is taken into consideration that there are over a million homes in the country today being heated by oil, and this only represents a little less than 2 per cent of the saturation point.

Some of the executives of the engineering school would be in doubt whether to offer highly specialized instruction in certain branches or to place the emphasis on broad engineering principles and leave the student to work out the applications when he graduates. The tendency hitherto has been toward increased specialization in the colleges. If that conception of the engineering school continues, then of course, the branch in which our correspondent is particularly interested should not be neglected, as it apparently has been.

QUERIES CHANGE FOR SURVIVAL OF UNIT BANKS

Local Official Speaks
Before Institute.

New York, Dec. 6.—(Special.)— Craig B. Hazlewood, president of the American Bankers' association and vice president of the Union Trust company of Chicago, declared last night at a dinner in New York that many states and cities are wondering whether unit banks can survive in the face of branch and chain banking.

He spoke before the New York chapter of the American Institute of Banking at the Hotel Pennsylvania.
The institute is the educational section of the bankers' association, and is training 38,000 young employees in scientific banking.

Rapid Branch Expansion.

Discussing the chain bank problem,
Mr. Hazlewood said: "In many cities and states we are wrestling with the question whether unit banks can survive chain and branch banking. From 1900 to the present year, the number of unit banks has increased from sixties to almost 3,000. How many banks can, in the true scientific spirit, put aside personal feelings, set down the cold facts and reason out the trend in this matter?

"Is every unit bank in this country doomed before the onrush of chains, holding companies and branch banking systems—or is chain banking merely a phase of our banking development which will awaken the unit bankers of the country to a more sounder culture of their own banking system?

"What might we not accomplish if we could establish a program of more intelligent and cooperative thinking in the banking profession than we have ever had in the past. If each of us would devote just half an hour a day to hard, independent, critical thinking about the banking business we could, I believe, revolutionize it in ten years, and the American banking system would reach the highest plane of achievement and greatness to which it has ever attained."

Among Present Problems.

Banking is emerging from the pioneer stage and is stepping into an era of scientific precision in its knowledge and organization. Mr.
Hazlewood asserted. He added that the demand of business and banking for young men and women with professional training and ability was greater than ever before. "Banking and business problems are crowding into the minds of the country, and in upon us so rapidly," Mr. Hazlewood said, "that the executive does not know where to look for adequate help or help."

Among the problems arising at present in banking which demand intelligent, trained thinking, Mr. Hazlewood said, are the financing of business through stocks, instead of the bonds and mortgages invariably utilized in former years and the control of stock market loans. "The time is coming," he declared, "when the officer of a bank will analyze operating statements, income and expense accounts on a far more scientific

SYNDICATE BUYS OLD BREWERY ON THE WEST SIDE

Schoenhofen Plant Used for Storage.

BY AL CHASE.

Seven acres of industrial buildings, famous in Chicago's business life before the days of Mr. Volstead as the home of the Schoenhofen Brewing company, established a few years after the civil war by Peter Schoenhofen, were bought yesterday by a syndicate headed by Charles E. Barnes. Until last Saturday Mr. Barnes was general manager of the Schoenhofen Terminal, Inc., seller of the property.

Mr. Barnes, who will be general manager in charge of operation of the new owning corporation, the name of which will be announced in a few days, states that the property comprises 125 lots, containing 376,500 square feet, and is improved with twenty-four buildings of one to six stories. They have a total floor area of 600,000 square feet.

Price Not Disclosed.

The land is bounded by 16th street on the north, Canal street on the east, Burlington street on the west and 18th and Canalport avenues on the south. There also are 361 feet of frontage on the west side of Burlington street and the 16th street frontage extends west to Jefferson street.

The price paid by the new owners was not disclosed but the county records show that the property was purchased subject to an incumbrance of $620,000 assumed by the buyers. A

Realty Co. May Purchase Famed Waldorf-Astoria

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Negotiations are under way for the purchase of the Waldorf-Astoria, one of New York's famous hotels, by the United States Realty and Improvement company, of which Harry S. Black is president. The fact was admitted today by responsible officials at the executive offices of the realty corporation. The price to be paid is still a matter of discussion.

COTTON PRICES SAG

The break in stocks in Wall Street, coupled with selling attributed to stock interests, had a depressing influence on cotton values, carrying prices down fairly and making a close at nearly the lowest of the day. Attention of the trade continues largely in the crop reports, with some high estimates which are causing liquidation by holders. Offerings were absorbed on the break and there were net losses of 14 to 24 points on futures in Chicago with other markets off 16 to 23 points. Spots held 20 points, with New York 20.35c, New Orleans 19.35c, Houston 19.50c and Galveston 19.70c. Liverpool was weak and started the early selling, with the close 4 to 6 points net lower and spot sales 4,000 bales.

New Orleans reports so far this week of 103,891 bales, against 69,649 bales last year. Exports for the week were 201,022 bales, against 25,774 bales last year. Prices follow:

CORN TREND IS UPWARD; TRADE LIGHT IN WHEAT

Oats Firm and Higher;
Rye Unchanged.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Corn market action was the reverse of Wednesday and with a better demand, both domestic and foreign prices for futures advanced and, while not holding the best figures, closed with net gains of $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, with December, $\frac{3}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, and May, $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢. Selling against offers was the main factor in checking the upturn. Trade in wheat was light, with commission houses absorbing northwest and early shorts around $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ for May, and later sellers covered for protection, causing an advance of $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢. Rye was unchanged to $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ higher for the day, with December, $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, and May, $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢.

Foreigners After Corn.

While the continent was reported as trying to cancel purchases of corn at the seaboard, there were bids in the market from the United Kingdom somewhat under a working basis, and Germany and Holland were inquiring for grain. It was also claimed that some importers who canceled purchases recently were trying to get the corn back again, owing to the decline in prices. Sales were made to exporters at the Gulf at $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ over Chicago December, compared with $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ over recently. New Orleans outbid Chicago $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ per bushel. However, purchases to come here during the day were placed at $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢. Shipping demand showed improvement, with sales by local handlers of 25,000 bu.

There was a noticeable lack of liquidation in futures, and the change in the character of the cash grain news led many of the local element who sold on Wednesday to take the buying side. Buenos Aires closed $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ higher, with Rosario up $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢. Weather conditions over the central west were favorable for field work.

Eastern Houses Buy Wheat.

Local sentiment was generally bearish on wheat, and prices were fractionally lower early, but the surplus in the pit was absorbed by houses with eastern connections, and the finish was well toward the top, some of the pit operators who sold early covering on the way up. Trade in the aggregate was light. Winnipeg finished unchanged to $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ lower, while Liverpool was $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢. Buenos Aires declined $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, and Rosario was $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ higher for the day.

Ordinary commercial news seems to have little effect on the wheat market, and price fluctuations of late have been largely a reflection of pit operations. India continues a good buyer of Australian wheat, and France has removed restrictions on the use of wheat. Private estimates suggested a winter wheat acreage for the 1929 crop of 45,844,000 acres, taking the average, compared with 47,897,000 acres as the unrevised figures of last year. Britain's report indicated that as a result of heavy marketings, farmers had only 200,000,000 bu left on hand to ship to terminals, after allowing for seed, feed, and waste. Export sales in all positions were estimated at 200,000 to 400,000 bu.

Oats market has been attracting more attention of late, and the May delivery, which sold at $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ on Aug.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Butter demand was less active and top scores declined sharply. Fresh eggs dropped $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢. Live heavy hens were off $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢, with spring chickens $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ higher and grown up $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢. Receipts, 4 cars by freight. Potatoes, steady with receipts 67 cars and 285 cars were on team track.

SALES FLOOD ON N. Y. CURB AS MONEY STIFFENS

Leading Issues Are Carried Down.

New York, Dec. 6.—(A)—A flood of selling orders, inspired largely by an unexpected stiffening in money rates, today brought about one of the sharpest reactions of the year on the New York curb market. Prices of a long list of leading issues were carried down 1 to 10 points, with even larger losses in a few specialties. Only a handful of specialties were able to withstand the selling movement, conspicuous among these being Fox Theater, which advanced slightly on a turnover of $16,500 shares, or nearly one-fifth of the day's entire volume of business.

The market pointed upward at the opening as pools resumed buying operations in a selected assortment of issues. Offerings reached huge proportions when the call money rate was backed up, with a general selling movement under way when the market closed.

Oil and public utilities were hard hit. High priced specialties also reacted rapidly. Montgomery Ward, Niles-Sement-Pond, Newmont Mining, and Grigsby-Grumow each dropping about 10 points. Tubize Artificial Silk broke 45 points on odd lot sales.

Price of N. Y. Exchange Seats Nearly $600,000

New York, Dec. 6.—(Special).—The price of seats on the New York Stock Exchange advanced to $595,000, or only $5,000 under the recently predicted value of $600,000. Arrangements were made for a sale at the new price, which is $10,000 higher than the last previous quotations. Names of the seller and buyer were not disclosed.

A FULL-TIME MOTOR OIL

There is Danger in Part-Time Lubrication

Your engine needs lubrication—not part of the time—but all of the time.

Old-type, ordinary motor oil will not give full-time lubrication. After 200 miles of driving it thins out. Your engine is not getting the lubricating service it needs.

Use Iso=Vis, the constant viscosity motor oil. It will not thin out. Iso=Vis was developed in the research laboratory of this company. It was made to overcome dilution trouble—and it does.

Give your car the advantage of full-time motor oil. Use Iso=Vis.

Prepare Your Car for Winter

Drain, flush and refill with the proper grade of Iso=Vis. At any Standard Oil Service Station and at most garages.

French Legislator, Due by Air Today, Gives Society Thrill

BY THALIA

One of the week-end's distinguished guests is arriving on quite short notice, via the air. He is M. Pierre Maudou, legislator, and he is expected to arrive sometime this morning in one of the planes bearing aviators' uniforms for the meeting of the International Aeronautic association.

The Casino has hurriedly organized a reception to be given Sunday afternoon, and nobody seems to know what other things there will be for him. He is the vice president of the French chamber of deputies, and also is the vice president of the International association in Paris, an organization with which the Casino is affiliated. He also is interested in aviation and its progress, hence his choice of transportation for this quick trip.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, president of the Casino, is to receive with him on Sunday, introducing the managers as they appear on the scene.

And, speaking of the Casino, its evening qualities are certainly being tested, for several nights a day are being given there. The Charles H. Hamiltons are having a large luncheon there on Sunday, also.

All the antiquarians remarked on the loveliness of the tea tablecloth at the Art Institute yesterday afternoon. Everybody was surprised to discover that instead of being an old piece of embroidered brocade, such as you might expect to see at an Antiquarian tea, it was a new thing—of baby white satin with a conventional floral design painted on it (only last week, I was informed) with tinsel flakes and water colors.

The table's decoration included also a pair of silver and gold centerpieces in silver rounds, and surrounded with silver Christmas tree balls, all reflected and glittered in a large mirror centerpiece.

Those inevitable teakwood chairs stood at each end for the women who posed, and the wrought iron candle stands stood along each side of the room, where Mrs. Charles H. Hamilton, president, Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, Mrs. Farnham McFadden, Mrs. Walter Borden and Mrs. Martin Ryerson were seated.

The Chicago Salon of Fine Arts sponsored a program on "Othello," "Hamlet," and "Lord Dunsinane," by E. H. Sothern, at the Art Institute yesterday afternoon, followed by a tea.

The wives of the older members of the board of governors will compose the receiving line at the Assembly hall this evening in the gold ballroom of the Congress hotel. Numerous dinner parties will precede the ball.

Among them will be one for a group of fourteen to be given by the Henry A. Gardners at the Blackstone, and one by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, which they planned to give for their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lloyd of Santa Barbara. Unfortunately the Lloyds have had to postpone their visit.

Among those who have reservations for the dinner to be given at the Union League club this evening, preceding a musical by E. H. Sothern, are Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Affleck, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Keig, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Linsinger, and Mr. and Mrs. John Vannatta.

The Woman's Roosevelt Republican club is to give a Victory card party next Wednesday afternoon for the newly elected Republican members.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, congressman-at-large; State Senator Mrs. Florence F. Bohrer, and Representative Mrs. Lottis Holman O'Neill, will be the guests of honor. Mrs. H. E. Elrod, Mrs. Flora S. Cheney, Mrs. Anna Wilmath Ickes, in the Illinois legislature, and Mrs. Mary E. Bussey, University of Illinois trustee. The committee in charge include Mrs. Harry C. Holloway, chairman; Mrs. Harry Hart, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. William T. Church, Mrs. William R. Collins, Mrs. Lewis Donnelly, Mrs. Clarence N. Goodwin, Mrs. F. J. Macneil, Mrs. S. Arthur Walther, and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy.

Mrs. Charles Rogers Lindsay Jr. of Grove farm, Wayne, Ill., has sent out invitations for a luncheon at the Bismarck club on Wednesday, Dec. 19, for Mrs. Joseph M. Sherburne and Mrs. Paul G. Dallwig of the Sovereign hotel.

Mrs. and Mrs. J. Allen Haines of the York City arrive in Chicago on Dec. 21 for their annual winter stay in Chicago. They will be at the Ambassador. Mrs. Haines is a member of the Twelfth Night ball committee, to take place this year on Jan. 11.

Miss Anne Mitchell, daughter of the John S. H. Mitchell, former Chicagoan, now residing in New York City, will arrive in Chicago on Christmas day to be the guest of Miss Edwina Litsinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edw. R. Litsinger, for a week. She will spend some time also with Miss Joan MacLellan. Miss Mitchell is to make her debut in New York and Chicago next season, but she will undoubtedly be entertained quite a bit here during her visit.

The Charles A. Klotz family of Winnetka is planning to make its usual journey to Palm Beach, Fla., after Christmas, according to advice received from the south. Miss Catherine Klotz, they say, may rival the athletic achievements of her sisters, Mrs. Robert Bennett (Elizabeth Klotz) and Mrs. Austin Pardee (Dorothy Klotz).

Palm Beach is expecting Mrs. George A. McKinnock to arrive within a few days at the McKinnock estate, Casa Alejandro, and to resume her activities with the Palm Beach Garden club, organized last winter. Mrs. McKinnock is to be with Mrs. McKinnock, and Mr. McKinnock will divide his time between Chicago and Palm Beach.

Fats and Sororities.
Kappa Sigma Tau sorority will give a dance this evening at the Hotel Roosevelt.

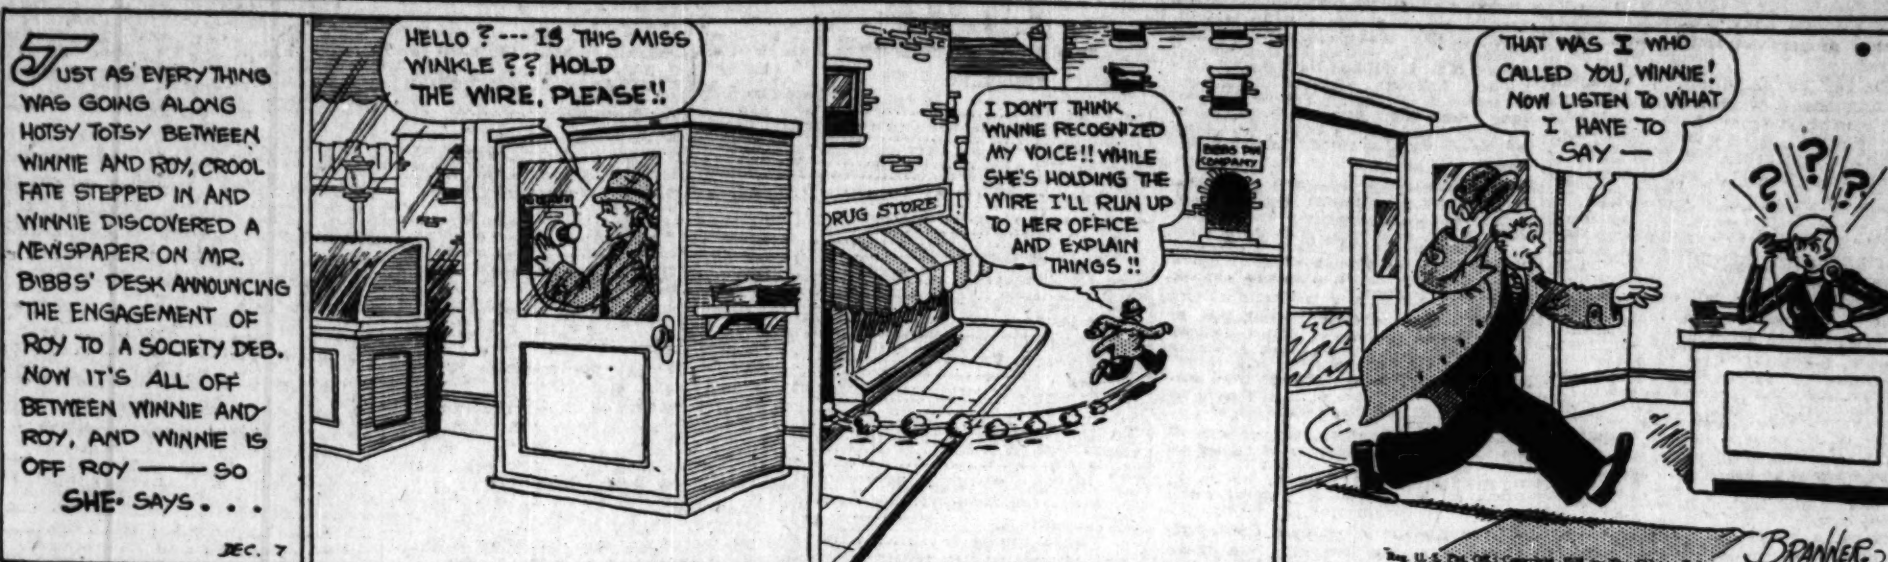

Alpha Delta Chi fraternity will hold its annual dance this evening at the Hotel Roosevelt.

The six Chicago chapters of the Sigma Phi Delta sorority will give a dance this evening at the Opera club.

West Walton place, Miss Agnes Murphy, is grand president of the sorority and is in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Omaha chapter of Phi Delta Sigma national sorority will present a play, "Miss Somebody Else," this evening at the Kimball hall.

Intolerance Grows Stronger in the U. S., Gilkey Tells Ohioans

Cleveland, O., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University of Chicago chapel, spoke here today on "The World Mission on Christianity." He declared:

"We used to think that the problem of the world's spiritual unity was going out and converting everybody else."

But the problem has been transformed from the simple and naive phase of converting others.

"Modern times have brought people closer together, but to offset new frictions and new rivalries there must be new bonds, which the church will have to produce."

"There are new gusts and violent storms of race prejudice, of pride, of nationalistic rivalries and intolerance, on the one hand, with patronage and condescension in the spiritual sphere, which gave rise to new missionary problems and call for a new policy and new program."

"We first must face the question: Is there less of Christ's spirit in the American churches?"

"It is our race and nationalistic prejudice and arrogance and bigotry which Christ is judging today, and if you don't believe it go to some other country."

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

The luxurious salons of Paris are the last word in studied artistry. Native style and love of beauty provide many dainty things to captivate the American tourist.

One thing, however, is offered at prices which to me seem beyond reason. That is cream. I saw an American woman buy an elaborate jar containing cream cream at a price which would have bought her a dress at home.

The same country—France—supplied me with the formula of my cream. And I know that French chemists cannot produce a finer cream. My summer vacation is spent in France each year, so I keep abreast of chemical experiments in the cosmetic field.

At first I merely sought this cream for my personal use. To me that was sufficient. My career depended upon my appearance. I had small amounts of my French cream compounded whenever I needed a supply. Friends began to ask whether they could not "beg, borrow or steal" a quantity. Gradually I had larger amounts made. Now it is put out by large laboratories supplying hundreds of thousands of women. This enormous production permits economies and, as a result, the cream is sold at a low price. Regardless of your income you can have the utmost in skin protection.

Some Larding Practices.

If it is a mistake to use breakfast bacon with chicken, and we believe it is, it is even more of a mistake to use it with delicate flavored fish. People have undoubtedly often used this smoked meat instead of the clear salt larding pork because they have misunderstood recipes. In English and in other foreign usages, the word bacon is used often to mean salt pork, while "breakfast" is used with "bacon" to mean the smoked cured sort.

A great many kinds of fish are really well seasoned with salt pork fat—clean as a whistle salt pork fat—and are almost ruined or made negative in flavor if smoked bacon is used.

A list of larded meats given in "The Hotel Butcher, Garde Manger and Carver" includes larded beef tenderloin, larded beef sirloin, larded filet mignon (tenderloin steak), beef à la mode, fricandeau of veal, larded rosettes of veal, larded loin of veal, larded rack of veal, larded sweetbreads, larded rack of lamb, larded loin of mutton or lamb, larded veal chops, and larded game and poultry.

Larding meat, you see, is fattening in its short order. And when this is done a fish cannot speak of a roast turkey or chicken as a kin of lard. It is as easy to dry up chicken if it is roasted under a blanket of salt pork, a thin one.

A meat chef's directions for preparing lardons reads: "Cut the larding pork in proper strips and place them in a bowl of cracked ice to harden, so that they will be easier and better to handle." This was in the directions for larding a beef tenderloin, but all salt pork cuts up advantageously if hardened in some such way. When we want to grind rashers of bacon we can only do it if they are hard, otherwise we must cut them fine with knife or scissors.

Before most cuts of meat are to be larded they must be trimmed, and this is a technical job, but practicing
